Britain May Accept Russian Military Alliance

Negotiations Reported Swinging Toward That Form of Bloc

Proposals Changed

LONDON (CP)—Great Britain has modified her suggestions for Russian collaboration in Europe. The anti-aggression front it would not surprise observers here if eventually she should accept the Soviet's original plan for a triple military alliance.

Extent of the modifications in the British plan are not known, but it is reported they were drafted to meet the Russian complaint that Britain's original suggestion was not sufficiently reciprocal.

Russia's proposals are understood to involve an outright military pact among the Soviet, Great Britain, France and possibly Poland.

When the British plan first was communicated to the Russian government by Sir William Seeds, the ambassador in Moscow, the Russians said it would leave them, in certain eventualities, to fight unaided. This contention has been denied all along by the British government.

DECLARATION ASKED

Every effort is being made to persuade Russia to accept the British plan which calls for an immediate declaration by Moscow that the Soviet army would be sent to the assistance of Poland and Rumania if either country requested it and if Britain and France actually went to war as a result of their pledges to those two countries.

However, if Russia stands adamant in favor of a military alliance, it would not surprise diplomatic observers here if Britain agreed. Meanwhile, negotiations between London and Moscow are proceeding on the British plan and its modifications.

It is understood that during the past few days Britain's military leaders have changed their views on Russian military assistance. They now believe, it is reported, that Russia could fill an important role in eastern Europe in defeating any aggressive thrust against Poland and Rumania, particularly in view of the Soviet's unlimited manpower.

VIEWS CHANGE

There are two other reasons why a military alliance may result in the end: 1—Pressure from France, which already has an alliance with Russia; and 2—Changing views in Britain regarding Spain and Japan.

Previously British leaders have been afraid that conclusion of a military pact with France and Russia would cause Spain and Japan to join in military alliances with the Rome-Berlin axis.

It is understood now, however, that there is a disposition to regard Spain as a spent force from a military viewpoint and Japan as playing too much a lone hand in the east to bother much about extension of the anti-commintern pact into a military bloc.

Japan is looked on as willing to tie up with the anti-commintern pact only for what she can get out of it and if this theory is correct, Britain's willingness to sign a military alliance which involved Europe only would not greatly worry her.

P.E.I. PEOPLE VOTE FOR NEW ASSEMBLY

Electors Choose Between 30 Liberals And 30 Conservatives

CHARLOTTETOWN (CP)—Prince Edward Island electors went to the polls today to choose a Legislature from among 30 Liberal candidates led by Premier Thane A. Campbell and a similar Conservative force, headed by Dr. W. J. P. MacMillan, a former Premier.

Only Liberals and Conservatives are engaged in the fight for the 30 seats to be occupied by 15 councillors and as many assemblymen—one of each from each of the province's 15 ridings. No other parties have been in power in the island since Confederation.

At dissolution of the last Legislature, April 21, Liberals occupied all seats.

In their platforms both leaders offered pledges of farm rehabilitation and back-to-the-land schemes for young men.

"Continued efficiency and economy" was a plank in the Liberal platform. The Conservatives promised an investigation to "reveal the true condition of the finances of the province."

Germany Swept By Spy Scare

People Warned to Avoid Strangers; Executions Weekly

By GERAUD JOUVE
Havas Correspondent

BERLIN—Germany is experiencing a country "spy scare" similar to that which swept the Soviet Union and resulted in hundreds of executions during the last few years.

All the means at the disposal of the Reich's propaganda machinery have been called into play to warn German citizens to avoid contacts with strangers and foreigners.

One step in the propaganda campaign is the publicity given the execution of spies. The press, radio, movies and even the special placards posted throughout Germany are called into play to report the deaths of alleged "traitors."

Executions for espionage have averaged two or three a week. Most of the victims of the axe are comparatively young residents of the frontier regions.

VALENCIENNES, France (AP)—Police disclosed today they were holding a German who said he had brought into France copies of German fortifications plans at Berlin and the Saxon town of Koenigsbrueck.

They said he identified himself as Heinrich Rothery, 27, officer in Chancellor Hitler's blackshirt Elite Guard.

The man, police said, told them he had deserted his regiment because he was dissatisfied with the Nazi regime and wanted to enlist in the French Foreign Legion.

Vancouver Broker Before Court

Davison B. Manley Charged With Theft of Mining Stock

VANCOUVER (CP)—Davison B. Manley, managing director of the Vancouver brokerage firm of Miller, Court and Manley, was under arrest here today on a charge of theft of 330 shares of Eralone Mines Ltd. stock.

The firm itself, suspended from the Vancouver Stock Exchange last Tuesday, was charged with operating between May 1 and May 13 without a certificate of registration.

Manley, at liberty on $5,000 bail, appeared in police court this morning and was remanded one week for hearing on the charge he stole the stock between January 1 and May 16.

Manley was the third Vancouver broker to be arrested within the last two weeks. His arrest followed investigation by Sergeant Carl Ledoux of the British Columbia Police under instruction of E. K. DeBeck, Superintendent of Brokers for British Columbia.

Sidney W. Miller, founder of the brokerage firm of Miller, Court and Manley Ltd., and J. W. R. McLeod have been charged with conspiracy to defraud the public in connection with the Freehold Oil Corporation Ltd. and Hargal Oil Ltd.

Great Welcome For Royal Party At Three Rivers

75,000 People in Region of Depot During Ceremony

People On Roofs

THREE RIVERS, Que. (CP)—King George and Queen Elizabeth arrived at 11:45 a.m., E.D.T., today in this pulp-manufacturing town and received a vociferous welcome from thousands of French-Canadian mill workers, school children and citizens who had managed to gain standing-room along the colorful Champ-flours. Their Majesties came here on their Royal train from Quebec, where they disembarked yesterday from the liner Empress of Australia.

The King and Queen appeared immediately the train came to a halt. They were accompanied by Prime Minister Mackenzie King, who presented "Monsieur la Maire," Atchez Pitt. Then Their Majesties mounted the carpeted dais and Mayor Pitt introduced Bishop Alfred Odillon Comptois of Three Rivers and 30 Dominion, provincial and civic officials and their wives. Among those presented was Senator Charles Bourgeois, whose home is in Three Rivers; Wilfred Gariepy, Liberal member of the House of Commons; Judge Emil Marchand and a number of civic officials.

BOTH SMILE

The Queen never lost her smile. Once in a while both Their Majesties responded smilingly to the continuous cheers, especially from the hundreds of school children sitting in tiers close to the station.

The cheers reached their greatest as Mayor Pitt presented his speech of welcome, inscribed on parchment.

On the dais, reached by a draw-bridge that led from the platform of the train almost to the street, the Queen made a graceful gesture. As the crowd cheered the Queen waved and smiled as the King, looking more rested than yesterday, saluted time after time. But her back still was to the greater part of the crowd, so she motioned the officials to stand the other way so she could see the crowd more freely. The crowd responded with a great roar.

With Their Majesties, besides the Prime Minister, was Premier Maurice Duplessis, whose home city is Three Rivers.

CHEERING CONTINUOUS

Only for seconds did the crowd take a breath long enough to silence the continuous cheers. There was a continual din of human voices from the time of the arrival until the Royal train disappeared in the distance. The Royal couple still on the rear observation platform, the King with his right hand at salute, and the Queen, still smiling and waving. The stop lasted 15 minutes.

Seventy-five thousand persons, twice the population of the city, had gathered here in the early hours of the morning to await Their Majesties.

ATLANTIC FLIER BELIEVED LOST

Hope Given Up For Carl Backman, Newfoundland to Sweden

CHICAGO (AP)—Relatives on both sides of the Atlantic virtually abandoned hope today for the safety of Carl Backman, Chicago aviator long overdue on an attempted solo flight from Newfoundland to Stockholm.

The 34-year-old flier has been unreported since his takeoff early Tuesday. Backman's small, 90-horsepower monoplane carried sufficient fuel for a 45-hour flight. He had calculated on making the crossing in 29 hours.

Backman's brothers, Andrew and Gust of Chicago, said they had lost hope for his safe arrival. In Sweden another brother expressed fear he had been forced down at sea. Backman's craft carried no radio.

U.S. Interests Stated Threatened

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of State Cordell Hull told the United States Congress today that vital United States interests "are being threatened in an increasing number of places and to an increasingly alarming degree."

He testified before a House of Representatives appropriations subcommittee during hearings on the annual supply bill for the State, Justice and Commerce Departments. Based on the subcommittee's findings, the full committee recommended $121,399,120 to run the three departments during the year starting July 1.

"Situations which a few years ago we would have considered as incredible and as impossible of existing in our relations with other states," Mr. Hull testified, "are with us today as a reality and have to be dealt with in the most concrete fashion every day."

$17,000,000 Defence Measures Voted

Commons Hears New Suggestions For Permanent Force

OTTAWA (CP)—Improvement in the conditions of service of Canada's permanent force to bolster morale and attract ambitious, intelligent young men, was urged on the government today by Leslie Mutch, Liberal, Winnipeg South, as the Commons approved defence estimates totaling $17,000,000.

Mr. Mutch advocated a contributory pension scheme for "other ranks," allowances for minor children and broadening of the marriage regulations.

C. Grant MacNeil, C.C.F., Vancouver North, maintained Canada should have a complete militia act of its own. He objected particularly to the provision in the British act, applicable to Canada, that a man might be sentenced to death.

Hon. Ian Mackenzie, Defence Minister, told Mr. MacNeil he would suggest to "whoever is in authority next year" that the matter be studied.

Increase in the permanent force was advocated by several, but the minister said no provision was intended for that this year.

Victoria Man Dies in Tacoma

TACOMA, Wash. (AP)—A 35-year-old man, identified by police as Thomas F. Burger of Victoria, B.C., was found dead in his hotel room here today. Detective Chief Cliff Osborne said Burger ended his life by drinking poison.

Burger registered as a Seattle resident, but hotel guests said the man had told them he was from Victoria.

1,000,000 In Montreal Give Welcome to King

Greeted at Every Crossing

MONTREAL (CP)—On their 186-mile trip from Quebec City to Montreal in the magnificent Royal train, the King and Queen today saw Quebec province painted on a broad canvas compared with the miniature they witnessed in Quebec City yesterday.

Industrial habitants dropped their farm work and gathered early in the morning at every crossroads along the route, waiting to cheer Their Majesties even though they often were given only a glimpse of them through train windows. The fact that the King and Queen were passing was enough. They came in trucks, in buggies, farm wagons and afoot.

Each little station was decorated, each farm house had its flags over haystacks. Union jacks mixed with the Tricolor of France and the papal flag—but all were meant as a welcoming sign for Their Majesties.

Queen Speaks to Veterans

THREE RIVERS, Que. (CP)—Two war veterans, carried away cherished memories of Queen Elizabeth today when, in a characteristic impromptu gesture, she suddenly addressed them from the dais at the station here.

The King and Queen were acknowledging cheers of the veterans, when the Queen leaned forward and said: "There are many veterans here today."

Jack Stewart, an elderly grey man, was almost caught unaware. But he came out with "Yes, quite a few," and F. Heywood standing next to him chimed in "Lots—plenty."

The King waved them a greeting with a broad smile. Ten thousand school children joined in the cheers which Their Majesties acknowledged. Stewart saw action at Ypres with the 13th Highlanders. Heywood was in the Royal Engineers.

From St. Helen's Island, in the St. Lawrence between the mainland and Montreal Island, they saw the city's waterfront across the river. At the city hall they were given an official civic reception and then proceeded to McGill University, where 14,000 Protestant school children cheered them to the echo.

40,000 Children Applaud King

MONTREAL (CP)—As the King and Queen drove in procession from the railway station to the City Hall this afternoon the sidewalks and curbs all down through Outremont and through the eastern section of the city were jammed tight with crowds that lifted hats and shouted. At each turn, the crowds began cheering as the roar of the motorcycle escort announced the approach.

Little more than an hour after the arrival at the station, the Royal procession touched off a vocal bedlam as the cars moved slowly around the cinder paths of Montreal Stadium, where more than 40,000 Roman Catholic school children stood up as one and cheered. The Union Jack was mixed in a sea of waving tricolors and banners of the schools from which the children came from many parts of the province.

The usual dull, black convent dress had been discarded by the thousands of girls who were accompanied by hooded nuns. The boys were accompanied by religious brothers, who raised their hats as the procession entered. It was an impressive sight—40,000 children standing, cheering, shouting in French and waving something, even only an identification paper that directed them to their proper seats.

King Signs Montreal's Book

MONTREAL (CP)—The King and Queen signed Montreal's new "Golden Book," in the city hall this afternoon.

On arriving at the city hall after the procession from the railway station the mayor and the Queen, followed by the King and Mrs. Houde, stepped up the stairs, passed through the "Hall of Honor," a blaze of brilliant decoration, to the mayor's office. They were followed by Prime Minister Mackenzie King, who also entered the office.

Seven minutes later, Their Majesties retraced their steps, the mayor still walking beside the Queen, and the King with Mrs. Houde, and made their way over the heavy red carpet to the red plush-covered dais on which were two green chairs.

The King and Queen stepped up on the dais while the mayor stepped to the left, and the Prime Minister to the right. While Their Majesties remained standing, City Clerk N. H. Gauthier placed before them a desk on which was the "Golden Book," which the King and Queen both signed with a new gold pen. As the King signed, he turned and spoke to the mayor, and they both smiled. The King stepped down, followed by the Queen, to receive an address of welcome, which he in turn handed to an equerry.

Notre Dame Church Bells Ring Out

Organ Plays National Anthem During Royal Procession in Montreal

MONTREAL (CP)—Deep tones of the historic bells of Notre Dame Church pealed today as the Royal procession reached Place d'Armes, where stands the statue of Paul de Chomedey, Sieur de Maisonneuve, who founded Montreal 297 years ago.

Through the high arched windows of the church drifted the organ strains of God Save the King. Ticker tape and paper floated in the gentle breeze to the crowded square, and applause and cheering greeted each nod and smile from the King and Queen.

Immediately after the procession had passed, the crowd poured into the side streets as if sluice gates had been opened on a dam.

May Flowers for Queen—THREE RIVERS, Que. (CP)—Memories of English gardens were evoked for Queen Elizabeth here today. In the bouquet of rose and lily of the valley which Mrs. Atchez Pitt, wife of the mayor of Three Rivers, presented to the Queen, were a branch of mayblossom peculiar to this section of Quebec.

The Queen expressed delight at finding the spring flower in the new world as well as in the old.

Thunderous Cheers And Applause Greet Royal Couple in Street

Scenes of Color

MONTREAL (CP)—Overwhelmed by tumultuous welcome from more than 1,000,000 citizens of Canada's largest city and its neighborhood, the King and Queen late today were taken to the comparative seclusion of the Chalet of Mount Royal. They took tea privately in the long, one-story building on the cliffside far above the city.

From the time of their arrival in this cosmopolitan city at 2:15 p.m. E.D.T., Their Majesties on the second day of their Canadian tour were greeted with thunderous applause as they passed through the streets.

More than 100,000 persons roared applause as the Sovereigns left Jean Talon station on North Park Avenue following their arrival from Quebec. At the baseball stadium, 40,000 children shouted themselves hoarse as the smiling, waving couple drove around the park.

From St. Helen's Island, in the St. Lawrence between the mainland and Montreal Island, they saw the city's waterfront across the river. At the city hall they were given an official civic reception and then proceeded to McGill University, where 14,000 Protestant school children cheered them to the echo.

AT STATION

A colorful array greeted Their Majesties as they stepped from the train to a carpeted pathway leading to a dais from their private train.

As the train pulled into the station exactly on schedule at 2:15 p.m., E.D.T., the Queen appeared first at the door of the last car. She smiled pleasantly to newspapermen and photographers.

The Queen was wearing a pale blue crepe gown with a long coat and pin tucks and a white fox fur. She wore pearls, beige stockings, grey shoes and long, white gloves. She carried a blue bag and wore a blue straw hat.

The King was dressed in the uniform of an admiral of the fleet.

The Royal Couple was greeted by Mayor Camille Houde and Mrs. Houde, with whom they shook hands, and other officials. Then all stood at attention while the band played God Save the King.

From the dais the King stepped over and inspected the Guard of Honor, comprised of members of the Fusiliers Mont Royal, the Black Watch (Royal Highland Regiment of Canada) and the 17th Duke of York's Royal Canadian Hussars, while the Queen remained talking with Prime Minister Mackenzie King, who had accompanied the Royal Party from Quebec.

CAPTAIN GREETED

The King returned with Captain S. S. T. Cantlie, commanding the Black Watch, and the Queen shook him by the hand. Her Majesty evidently took delight in the Scottish uniform, complete with tall busby.

Meanwhile, the Royal motor car pulled alongside and Their Majesties entered. A Royal Canadian Mounted Police officer placed a plaid rug across their knees, and the car remained in line until all officials entered their cars. Then the procession started off slowly for a tour through the eastern section of the city and the City Hall, where an official reception awaited them.

PRECAUTIONS TAKEN

Elaborate precautions were taken by police and, though newspapermen were permitted to stand within a few feet of Their Majesties, they were not allowed to touch their typewriters for 10 minutes after the party left. So close was police supervision in the station area proper that no person was allowed to move, other than officials in the welcoming party.

See other stories of the Royal tour on Pages 2 and 3.

KING VISITS HISTORIC FORT

Royal Party On St. Helen's Island At Montreal

MONTREAL (CP)—At 3:30 this afternoon the Royal entourage crossed the Jacques Cartier Bridge over to St. Helen's Island, lying half-way across the St. Lawrence from Montreal island to the mainland. It was that island that Samuel de Champlain, early French explorer, named after his wife in 1611.

Every post on the bridge was decorated with huge colored banners of "New France." Between the island and mainland, tugs scurried about, shrieking shrilly. Numerous freighters, decorated with flags from stem to stern, kept up a lasting, roaring crescendo until the Royal party reached the island, where a momentary halt was made for the King and Queen to inspect the preserved fortifications that once guarded Montreal harbor.

The procession retraced its route across the bridge and made quickly for the City Hall, almost seven minutes ahead of the carefully-planned schedule.

Montreal Buses Crowded

MONTREAL (CP)—So great was the rush to travel over the Royal route, thousands of persons stood in never-ending lines to enter buses, charging 25 cents to travel through that section of the city to be visited by the King and Queen during their stay in Montreal this afternoon.

Royal Pair Bid Quebec Good-bye

Departure Made After
23 Hours in Historic
French-Canadian City

QUEBEC (CP) — As the Royal train pulled out of Palais Station here for Montreal at 9:32 a.m. (5:32 a.m. P.S.T.) today, the King and Queen were bade farewell by Lieutenant-Governor E. L. Patenaude of Quebec.

The pilot train, bearing newspapermen, photographers, railway officers and other officials, preceded the Royal train by a half-hour.

Prime Minister Mackenzie King, Premier Duplessis and the Lieutenant-Governor had been at the station entrance to meet the King and Queen on their arrival from the Citadel, where they had spent the night in the summer-home of Canada's Governor-General.

TWO-MILE DRIVE

Cheering crowds lined a two-mile route over which Their Majesties were driven under escort of provincial traffic policemen mounted on motorcycles.

Before entering the station with Her Majesty, the King inspected a guard of honor. Meanwhile the Queen stood chatting with Lieutenant-Governor Patenaude, and smiled and waved to a farewell throng about the station grounds.

The King wore the undress uniform of an admiral of the fleet and Her Majesty a suit of a powder blue shade.

The day was brighter than yesterday when Their Majesties arrived, but much colder. Despite a chill wind, they rode in an open automobile from the old fortress to the station.

A military band played "God Save the King" as the King and Queen arrived at the station. After the King's inspection of the guard, as Their Majesties entered the station building, resounding cheers went up.

The departure of the Royal couple, two minutes behind schedule, was carried out one hour less than a full day after their landing at historic Wolfe's Cove.

The large crowd, cheering and shouting "Vive le Roi et la Reine" swept around the station building and to the tracks as the Royal train started.

QUEEN WAVES

The King and Queen stood waving on the observation platform as the train rolled away. Her Majesty raised her hand to Lieutenant-Governor Patenaude and Mrs. Patenaude, standing back on the platform.

Eight Days for Contempt

VANCOUVER (CP) — Jack Robinson, hotel elevator operator, was sentenced by Magistrate H. S. Wood to eight days in jail for contempt of court when he refused to give evidence today at the preliminary hearing of Dolores Brooks, charged with the slaying of a Chinese here April 11.

Harry McMillan and Arthur Rennie are also charged with the slaying of the Chinese, Woo Daek; found dead in his hotel room here from a severe blow on the head.

Gay Crowd in Montreal

Throng in Streets 9 Hours Before
Arrival of Train Carrying King and Queen

By T. R. WALSH
Canadian Press Staff Writer

MONTREAL — Never in the 300-year history of this once Iroquois village has the varied population united as it did today to welcome King George VI and Queen Elizabeth.

Almost nine hours before the Royal train arrived at squat Jean Talon station, thousands of persons swarmed on to the line. Their Majesties were to follow through the city. Even downtown, on the massive lawns of Dominion Square, where the King and Queen were not due to be seen until 6 this evening, the crowds had formed six and eight deep.

From the time the sun burst in brilliance over the city, little groups, some with lunch baskets, suitcases, steamer rugs, chairs and improvised folding stools, began pouring into the main traffic arteries. Hundreds of people nearby hamlets came into the city before daybreak, some by truck, car and even horse and buggy.

Down in Victoria Square, surrounding the huge monument to the present King's great-grandmother, even the Indians were represented: Six of them clad in brilliant plaids found places along the curbstone to await the parade. With them was a squaw, her squalling papoose on a heavily-beaded "backboard."

DOUBLE EVENT
Everyone was in holiday mood. The French-Canadian was observing not only the presence of the King and Queen, but also the holy day of the Ascension. From the churches, crowds streamed from early mass. Thousands of school children marched along the roadways, seeking the observation posts reserved for them.

All through the business districts, in preparation for the crowds, barriers had been placed in front of plate glass windows, $30 FOR SEATS

Thousands of persons who had paid as high as $30 for bleacher seats along the route gained early occupancy of their positions and ate breakfast and luncheon. They had come prepared for the hours' wait that lay before them.

Police had their hands full restraining the gay crowd, which sought to break police lines at the station.

At one corner in the area, a tall, grey-haired man wore a tam-o'-shanter bearing the explanation: "Mon, I'm a Scotsman." He produced a mouth-organ and led six men and four women through the singing of "Annie Laurie."

"It's for the Queen," he shouted. "Come on, join in." Small periscopes, brought along to afford a better view of the procession, appeared early. Cameras were everywhere.

First official arrivals at the station were Royal Canadian Mounted Police. Their scarlet tunics stood out vividly in the brilliant sunshine.

RED CARPET
At one end of a brick express shed officials placed a thick red carpet for Their Majesties on their walk to their car a few yards away. A long banner bore the message in silver letters: God Save the King.

Five hundred members of the fraternal society, Sons of Italy, had a choice spot outside the station. They had volunteered to help keep back the crowds and were assigned to that area. Accompanied by a band, the green-uniformed contingent made a pleasing picture.

Children carried small Union

Jack's tricolors or papal flags. There were many priests and black-robed members of Roman Catholic teaching orders in the crowds. They were in the city to see the procession from the wide steps of Notre Dame church in downtown Montreal.

Forty-five minutes before the Royal train was scheduled to arrive, silence fell over the crowd as the two maroon cars to be alongside the carpeted path leading from the tracks.

One of the rare sights was at the Montreal Stadium. It was taken over by Catholic school children—30,000 of them. Practically all the girls had discarded their dark convent dress for gay, bright colors.

The children, who came to form a huge cross during the drive of Their Majesties around the grounds, wore red, white and blue capes over their shoulders, waved Union Jacks and tricolors and shouted down the music from a loudspeaker.

Suicide Verdict On
LONDON (AP) — A verdict that Ronald Gurner, author and former school headmaster, "died from shock from poisoning self administered" was announced today at the inquest.

Gurner, who wrote "Pass Guard at Ypres," considered one of the best novels of the Great War, was headmaster of Whitgift Grammar School. He was found dead yesterday.

Army Clerk Sentenced
MANCHESTER, Eng. (CP-Reuters) — Edward Edwards, 37-year-old civilian clerk who worked in the territorial army office at Sheffield, today was sentenced to 18 months' hard labor following conviction on two charges of obtaining confidential documents in violation of the Official Secrets Act.

PROTEST REJECTED
TOKIO (AP) — A British protest against the landing of Japanese marines at Kulangsu, Amoy's international settlement, was rejected Thursday by Renzo Sawada, vice-minister of foreign affairs. He saw the British ambassador, Sir Robert Craigie.

Sawada said the troops had been landed merely for protection of Japanese life and property, and now were being withdrawn gradually.

JERUSALEM (CP-Havas) — The Palestine Arab High Committee tonight rejected the white paper outlining Great Britain's proposal for establishment of an independent Arab-Jewish state, in the Holy Land.

Reports from Cairo said the Egyptian government had officially notified Britain it cannot urge Palestine's Arabs to accept the proposals for a Holy Land settlement.

(Saudi Arabia and Iraq, two other Arab states concerned with the fate of Palestine, similarly have disapproved of the London plan, it was reported.)

Notre Dame Decorated
MONTREAL (CP) — Even historic stone Notre Dame church was decorated gaily for the visit of the King and Queen this afternoon. Lines of flags hung from the twin towers, on one of the rare occasions in its long history. The Union Jack and French tricolor flew side by side.

King's U.S. Visit Purely Friendship

No Other Political Significance, Says
British Ambassador

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sir Ronald Lindsay, British ambassador to the United States, held today the first press conference in his life to tell correspondents the sole political purpose for the coming visit of King George and Queen Elizabeth to the United States is "to improve the ties of friendship with your country."

Sir Ronald, facing about 30 reporters, said the Royal Visit had primarily been arranged as a visit to Canada and "the visit to the United States was not at the fore at that time in the minds of the King and Queen. But once the visit was arranged to Canada, its extension to the United States was the most natural thing in the world."

"The purpose of the visit here is not primarily political although it is perfectly obvious that when the King visits a foreign country part of his purpose is to improve the ties of friendship as far as he possibly can. There is no more political purpose in the visit than that."

Answering a question, he said it was "inconceivable the King would not have conversations with Secretary (of State) Hull during his visit."

It was assumed the ambassador meant that in the natural course of events His Majesty would have an informal chat with the Secretary of State, senior member of the Roosevelt cabinet.

There will be no press conference of any sort by the King, he said. When a correspondent suggested that perhaps His Majesty might like to hold one, Sir Ronald replied, "I don't think so."

He said the King would not make any speeches here, but would pronounce a short toast at the state dinner at the White House.

The ambassador cited history to explain why the King and Queen would be received in the rotunda of Congress and not go into the Senate or House halls.

"The King cannot go to his own Parliament except under very carefully laid down rules," he said. "This is owing to certain incidents in history of which you know. The Parliament does not seem to have forgotten them."

"Because of the same sort of analogy, the King is hesitant about paying visits to other parliaments in an official manner."

BOWING
Asked whether American men should bow from the waist in meeting the King, Sir Ronald replied:

"I think they might do what I do when I meet the President. I behave in a suitable and respectful manner."

"I would certainly give a bow. Whether it comes from my waist or not, I don't know."

JEWIS RIOT IN PALESTINE CITIES

Many Demonstrations Against Britain's New Administration Plan

JERUSALEM (AP) — Serious disorders broke out tonight in the Jewish city of Tel Aviv and in Jerusalem as Jews continued their demonstrations against the British government's new policy in Palestine.

An official of the Czechoslovak consulate was severely wounded when stoned by a mob while driving his automobile near the district commissioner's office in Jerusalem.

At least 40 persons received first aid hospital treatment after a number of clashes in Tel Aviv. Jews of all ages, estimated by their leaders at 175,000 strong, marched and shouted in demonstrations of protest throughout Palestine during the day.

JERUSALEM (CP-Havas) — The Palestine Arab High Committee tonight rejected the white paper outlining Great Britain's proposal for establishment of an independent Arab-Jewish state, in the Holy Land.

Reports from Cairo said the Egyptian government had officially notified Britain it cannot urge Palestine's Arabs to accept the proposals for a Holy Land settlement.

(Saudi Arabia and Iraq, two other Arab states concerned with the fate of Palestine, similarly have disapproved of the London plan, it was reported.)

Notre Dame Decorated
MONTREAL (CP) — Even historic stone Notre Dame church was decorated gaily for the visit of the King and Queen this afternoon. Lines of flags hung from the twin towers, on one of the rare occasions in its long history. The Union Jack and French tricolor flew side by side.

'Rose of Death' Held for Trial

Woman Arrested in New York in Big
Insurance-murder Plot

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Topped by the arrest in New York of a woman known to police as "Rose of Death" and a leading character in the eastern United States mass-murder melodrama, three quick developments spurred a drive today for swift prosecution of 25 men and women charged with participation in plots to kill for insurance.

The developments were:

1. Agents of the Federal Bureau of Investigation seized Rose Carina in New York, ending a long search for the women detectives said lured men to their deaths for dollars.

2. The Philadelphia office of the F.B.I. arranged the return from Cleveland of Dominic Rodio, 51-year-old former private detective charged with complicity in a drowning investigators say was the work of the slay-for-pay syndicate.

3. A Philadelphia plan was held in $5,000 bail, charged with attempting to extort money from the son of a widow held in the mass-murder case on a promise to obtain her release.

Assistant District Attorney Vincent P. McDevitt said he would ask a grand jury today for murder or conspiracy indictments against a dozen suspects. He indicated group arraignments would begin Monday, with expectations of several guilty pleas.

The first trial may begin a week later, he said.

Although McDevitt described Mrs. Carina as "just a cog in the wheel," investigators dramatically dubbed her "the kiss of death woman." They charged three of her five husbands died under suspicious circumstances.

She is wanted specifically in the death of the fourth of her husbands, Pietro Stea, a grocer, whose recently exhumed body showed traces of poison.

NEW B.C. Ferry
Launching Today

KELOWNA (CP) — Hon. F. M. MacPherson, British Columbia's Minister of Public Works, and Mrs. MacPherson arrived in this Okanagan centre today to officiate at launching of the new $100,000 ferry to ply Okanagan Lake between here and Westbank.

The new craft will be christened the Pendozi in a ceremony arranged by the Kelowna Board of Trade.

OTTAWA (CP) — Fair weather was promised today by the Dominion Meteorological Bureau for the first day of the visit of the King and Queen to Ottawa tomorrow.

LEFT THE ARMY WITH RHEUMATISM

Now Fit to Join Again
Twenty years ago, he left the army, constipated and rheumatic. Today, he is fit and nimble — a merry, romping granddad, 61 years young.

"I came out of the army with rheumatism," he writes. "It was especially bad in my feet. I started taking Kruschen Salts, and in a few months I found relief from my rheumatism. I became nimble on my feet. Now, at 61—weighing 168—I am cheerful, energetic, and always ready to play with my grandchildren."

F.E.B.

Many people grow old long before their time because they neglect one vital need of health—the need for internal cleanliness. Eventually, they adopt the healthy Kruschen habit. Then, probably for the first time in their lives, they start getting rid every day of waste matter from the system. The result is renewed health and vigor. Ailments due to a clogged system vanish, youth returns, and life becomes really worth living.

Piles Go Quick

With Dr. Leonhardt's Prescription

Many sufferers from itching, bleeding or protruding piles have found out that quick relief can be had with an internal medicine.

Bad circulation of blood in the lower bowels is the cause of piles. The veins are congested and flabby, the bowel walls weak. That is why an internal medicine, like HEM-ROID should be used. HEM-ROID stimulates the circulation, relieves the pressure of blood in the veins of the lower bowel and helps to heal and restore the torn, tender parts.

HEM-ROID is the prescription of Dr. J. S. Leonhardt, who spent several years of his professional life in finding the cause of piles and the medicine that would remove them. His medicine succeeds because it tends to correct the cause.

No matter what kind of piles you have or how long you have had them, if you want to try HEM-ROID, you have our promise to give you back your money if you do not find quick and satisfying relief, after using just one bottle.

MacPherson and Vancouver Drug Stores, or any druggist, can supply you.

The Eldorado mine at Radium City on Great Bear Lake in the Canadian sub-Arctic is said to be the world's greatest producer of radium, mining and refining five grams a month.

Royal Train Starts Journey

Their Majesties in Palace On Wheels For Continental Tour

QUEBEC (CP) — Their Majesties made use today for the first time of the palace-on-wheels that will be their home and "official residence" for all but a few days during the next month while they make a two-way tour of Canada from coast to coast and a side trip to the United States.

From this morning, when the King and Queen started for Montreal after their one-day visit to this ancient city on the rock, until June 15, when they sail from Halifax, the luxurious 12-car train will trace a history-making course across more than 6,000 miles of Canadian and United States territory.

Designed especially for the tour that no other British sovereign ever has taken, the blue-and-silver train is a masterpiece of railway craftsmanship. Every detail to provide for the comfort of the Royal passengers and their suite can be found within the "dream" train's tastefully-furnished interior.

PRIVATE SUITES

The streamlined train contains private suites for Their Majesties and attendants, bathrooms with showers, a small Royal dining-room with seating for 12 persons, a large dining-car for the staff, lounges, and kitchens equipped beyond the fondest dream of any housekeeper.

Every car contains a radio and telephone. When the train stops, the main switchboard in the baggage room will be connected to land lines. From their suite, the King and Queen will be able to call their daughters in London, Princesses Elizabeth and Margaret Rose.

This will be Their Majesties' first night aboard the train. They slept last night within the grey stone walls of the storied Quebec Citadel after 11 nights aboard the liner Empress of Australia.

Nearly 500 persons will see service as the train crew. Canadian Pacific and Canadian National Railways crews will share the task of guiding Their Majesties safely across the country and back.

Grand Mufti Barred

LONDON (AP) — Colonial Secretary Malcolm MacDonald disclosed today the British government had decided to exclude Haj Amin Effendi al Hussein, Grand Mufti of Jerusalem, from Palestine "indefinitely."

Replying to a question he said the Grand Mufti's organization was held responsible for "a campaign of terrorism and assassination against the British and Jews, but also that he is head of a faction which has, for many months past, pursued persistently a similar campaign against large numbers of Arabs."

DUNCAN — Arthur LeQuesne, a pupil of the Duncan Junior High School, met with a serious accident Tuesday afternoon, when he was struck on the back of the head with a 16-pound shot with which one of the boys was practicing for the school sports. The boy was taken to the Duncan Hospital where his condition is reported fair.

Children's Welcome Moves the King

Scene On Plains of Abraham Makes Impressive Tribute to Their Majesties

By BRUCE HUTCHISON

QUEBEC—Picture if you can a green plain on the edge of sheer dark cliffs, below them a glistening river where grey destroyers swing in the current, and beyond the river a rolling pasture land of white farm houses and silver church steeples.

On the plain are massed 10 solid acres of children, each waving a tiny Union Jack, each shouting wildly. At one side of the crowd, on the edge of the cliffs, a young man stands with his wife upon a stage bright with bunting.

From here the King of England is a small, dark figure, silhouetted against the blue sky, and you can tell the Queen only by her grey dress and hat.

MOVING SIGHT

King has seen many strange and moving sight in his time, and so have these battle Plains of Abraham, but nothing like this. These are the children of another race and another tongue. Their shouts are in French, not English. Their dark excited faces are not the faces of our Anglo-Saxon children. Their dress is a little different too. But here on the very ground where their ancestors were conquered by the English these French children send a thundering shout of welcome up to the sky.

You can arrange formal receptions for the King and Queen among grown-ups. You can make speeches and give dinners. But you cannot plan or control the welcome of these children. It comes from a deep excitement within them, quite beyond the calculations of politics and cutting instantly through race prejudice.

Beside us, standing on the stone wall by the cliffside are a hundred little French girls dressed in the black serge uniform of a religious school. Each carries a crimson rose in her hand. They are tired and stand on the wall almost in silence. A young woman in the black and grey robes of a nun who has charge of this group, speaks to them in French, trying to cheer them up, but they are listless.

Then, from over at the other side of the battlefield a quarter of a mile away a shout is heard and it rolls like a wave over the crowd.

The King is coming.

WAVE OF SHOUTS

The little girls stand on tiptoe to see him. They begin to shout, too, in French which we cannot understand. The roar grows louder. The King's car is coming through the crowd and the little girls catch their first glimpse of him, beside the Queen.

He is not smiling. He seems too surprised and interested to smile. He can only peer at the French children. The girls beside us jump up and down on the wall, wave their roses in the air and squeal. One of them falls off the wall in her excitement and a bearded old fellow from the country lifts her up in his arms so she can see over the heads of those in front. She is still waving her rose.

On the other side of the driveway the crowd packed into ten acres is like a dark covering upon the green grass. But as the King comes each child suddenly raises his little silk Union Jack and waves it. From this distance it is exactly as if a vast field of flowers had sprung full bloom out of the earth and were fluttering in the wind.

Then as suddenly the flowers die back into the earth again and all those shrill voices begin to sing God Save the King.

They sing it in French, a combined sound which must be plainly audible in the streets of Quebec two miles away. There is something strangely moving in it.

TWO RACES UNITED

The statesman may talk about the racial compromise of Canada. The lawyers may draw legislation to promote it. But you have never felt the strange and rich combination of the two races, two bloodstreams, which makes up Canada until you have heard these children shrilly singing God Save the King in their own French language. We cannot distinguish the words, but the familiar tune rolls across the old battlefield. So vast is the crowd that the children at one side cannot keep up with those at the other and by now the anthem rises and falls in three different levels.

On the reviewing stand the King stands stiffly at attention, the Queen at his side. Back of them are Premier King, and Premier Duplessis, they have shaken hands formally but now stand well apart and do not converse during the ceremonies, which is not surprising.

As the anthem dies down again the shouting is resumed. Near us a little boy with a dollar box camera climbs up a tree above the crowd to take a picture. He gets wedged into the branches and a policeman has to pry him loose and lift him to the ground.

Beside us a 12-year-old girl is carrying a baby sister who sleeps peacefully in her arms through all the noise. A merry looking old priest has a score of little boys in blue uniforms in his charge and he lifts them up one by one so that they can see the distant dark figure of the King.

A group of young men from some religious order, wearing grey robes and straggling beards look on with evident amazement as if they had come from some distant land.

AN IRISH WOMAN

As the children chant in French an old woman in rusty black coat, Irish by her accent, sings lustily in English and when she finishes the last God Save the King she turns to us and says as if it were surprising news: "These kids are French. That's French they were singing. They don't know no better."

Two little girls in white dresses appear on the platform and shyly present bouquets of pink roses to the Queen who accepts them smilingly. Once again the flags sprout suddenly all over the plain and flutter like flowers in the wind.

Now another anthem rises. It is O Canada, and sung in French by the descendants of the first Canadians.

No Canadian can hear it rolling across the Plains of Abraham from the throats of these little dark children without a strange feeling inside. All the history of these 300 years since Champlain's time, the whole story of Wolfe and Montcalm are mixed up somehow in this song.

"That's French they're singin'," the old Irish woman tells us again and she seems quite unaware that tears are rolling down her cheeks. George and Elizabeth are leaving now and this time God Save the King rolls out in English with a louder shout.

"That's better," says the Irish woman.

The acres of little flags flutter wildly across the battlefield.

QUEEN'S CHARM WINS QUEBEC

Ancient City Long Will Remember Her Graciousness

QUEBEC (CP) — French-Canada's memory of Queen Elizabeth undoubtedly will be its fondest of the Royal Visit which ended today with Their Majesties' departure for Montreal.

The deep impression of Her Majesty's beauty and charm on Quebec's French-Canadians was one of the most notable features of the 23-hour stay of the King and Queen here.

Her poised, quiet smile and graceful wave of her hand on every occasion brought happy smiles to the faces of city folk who swarmed at numerous points for as many glimpses of "La Belle Reine" as possible.

Doubly pleasing to the Quebecois were the warm glances Her Majesty received from King George with the ovals for her: "Urchins and students, ladies' maids and ladies, laborers and public men, all spoke with fond reverence of 'La Belle Reine'."

Armour Confirmed

WASHINGTON (AP) — Appointment of Norman Armour of New Jersey to be United States ambassador to Argentina was unanimously approved yesterday by the Senate.

King and Queen Attend Dinner

400 Quebec Notables At Brilliant Function In Ancient City

QUEBEC (CP) — Fireworks that lighted the way home late last night for the King and Queen symbolized the joy of Quebec City at having Their Majesties as guests on their first day in Canada. The heaviest night street crowds in Quebec's history roared approval of the Royal couple as they left a dinner given by the Quebec Government.

The shouts and cheers that were heard during the day were weak in comparison with which they were greeted as they entered the Chateau Frontenac for the dinner and left it for the Citadel.

An official attached to the Royal Party said the spontaneous cheers that went up as Their Majesties arrived for the dinner was new in his experience and surpassed anything he had heard while riding with the Royal Party during the day.

As they left the hotel, guests and newspapermen, who do not usually cheer anyone, set up a series of hurrahs in the Chateau lobby.

Their Majesties charmed the 400 Quebec notables who attended the dinner, a masterpiece of culinary planning.

As the King and Queen entered, the guests rose and applauded them heartily.

The Queen paused and seemed almost on the point of moving over to speak to guests near the door. On leaving they received 20 of the more prominent guests, shaking hands and chatting with them.

QUEEN WEARS DIAMONDS

The Queen was regal and lovely in a pompadour, ermine gown of pale rose satin, bright with copper and pink star sequins.

She wore diamonds and a tiara. Her Majesty wore evening dress with decorations.

During the evening Her Majesty chatted animatedly with Premier Duplessis of Quebec while guests craned their heads to get a better view of her costume and jewels.

Among the prominent guests seated with Their Majesties at the head table were Prime Minister King, Lieutenant-Governor E. L. Patenaude and Mrs. Patenaude of Quebec, Senator Arthur Meighen and Mrs. Meighen of Toronto, Justice Minister Ernest Lapointe and Mrs. Lapointe and Provincial Treasurer Martin Fisher.

There were no speeches. After the toast to His Majesty the guests sang "God Save the King" and put a degree of fervor into it that indicated a personal meaning.

Later the King and Queen joined them in singing O Canada in English. A few of the guests sang it in their own French and the blend seemed to please Their Majesties.

During the dinner two elaborately-uniformed footmen served the Royal couple, busying themselves for a time about with winnow drapes behind Their Majesties to make sure the ventilation was just what they wanted.

MENU

The King and Queen, possibly tired after a heavy day although they did not look it, ate sparingly of the elaborate menu.

It consisted of: Caviar, chicken consommé Montmorency, Laurette trout with white wine, Quebec lamb crown, champagne sherbet, breasts of Island of Orleans snowbirds, French salad, strawberry cup with whipped cream, fancy biscuits, fruit basket and coffee.

Rare vintage wines were served. First there was Amontillado sherry, then Chevalier Montrachet, Hospice de Beaume, Chateau Haut Brion, Grand Fin champagne and Napoleon brandy.

Approximately 79 per cent of the world's automobiles are produced in the United States and Canada.

Probably it is the traditional perfection of their "London Mixtures" which has made Englishmen so fond of their pipes... Piccadilly is just such a one, with all the fragrance and flavour, the slow-burning, cool qualities demanded by London clubmen, and developed for them by tobaccoists with the accumulated experience of centuries in building choice tobaccos.

New German Moves in Balkans

Bulgaria's Claims On Roumania and Greece Discussed

BUDAPEST (AP) — German attention to Bulgaria's territorial claims on Roumania and Greece, as disclosed by Berlin's minister to Bulgaria, today became a factor in the rivalry of the great powers for influence in the Balkans.

Anti-Roumanian demonstrations took place throughout Bulgaria following yesterday's statement by the German minister, Baron Herbert von Richthofen, that "we are always thinking of Bulgaria's revisionist claims."

(Bulgaria gained territory from Turkey but lost to Roumania, Serbia and Greece in the Balkan Wars of 1912 and 1913, and therefore sided with the Central Powers in the Great War, when Bulgarian troops occupied Roumanian and Serbian (Jugoslavian) territory only to have the gains of both wars stripped from her under the Great War Treaty of Neuilly.)

Von Richthofen made the statement to the press after talking at the Sofia Railroad Station with Franz von Papen, German ambassador to Turkey, en route home from Ankara for what he said was a two-week vacation.

A sudden turn in the old Croatian campaign for autonomy in Jugoslavia was seen by some observers as a sign of Italian-German pressure on Jugoslavia to tighten her relations with the axis powers. Dr. Vladko Machev, the Croat leader, left Zagreb "for health reasons" just as Yugoslav Premier Dragisa Cvetkovich was to arrive with new proposals to settle Croatian autonomy demands.

Jugoslav diplomats expressed fear that German and Italian encouragements to the Croats might follow any hesitancy by the Belgrade government in lining up with Rome and Berlin.

Blast at Woolwich Kills Five Gunners

Anti-aircraft Gun Explodes While Being Loaded at Arsenal

LONDON (AP) — The War Office announced that five army gunners were killed and six injured today in an explosion at Woolwich Arsenal, the second there in two days.

The explosion occurred during the loading of a 3.7-inch anti-aircraft gun. An investigation was begun.

Today's was the most serious accident at Woolwich since five men were killed in 1936 during secret experiments with artillery ammunition.

The dead: Battery Sergeant-Major H. H. Constantine, Staff-Sergeant E. R. Brown, Gunner C. Shepherd, Gunner W. Griffiths and J. R. Breeley Gardens, Eitham.

Two persons were killed and two injured yesterday in an explosion in the Woolwich Arsenal's cartridge shop.

No One-way Trade

WHEN HE SPOKE RECENTLY TO THE Detroit Foreign Trade Club, Mr. Lindsay Crawford, secretary of the National Foreign Trade Council, voiced the truism that although statesmen may dictate in the field of international politics, it is to business men in all countries that governments must finally look for the economic reinforcement of any plans designed to maintain normal international trade relations. Mr. Lindsay obviously was speaking feelingly about those governments whose policies—in his own country and in Canada—had been mainly instrumental in blocking the natural channels of world trade.

Foreign trade, of course, is a vital component of the prosperity of any nation, especially of those nations, such as Canada, for example, with large surpluses of primary products for export; such as Great Britain, which depends upon the world market for the disposal of the products of her great industrial machine. Taking mental note of the fact that it was the United States which, after all, accelerated the pace with which economic nationalists the world over launched their pet schemes for self-sufficiency, Mr. Lindsay referred to the matter in these terms:

"While speculation as to future developments may be encouraging, it does not ignore the fact that our immediate problem is that of restoring our foreign trade. When it is said that the United States is 90 per cent self-contained, omission is made of the 10 to 50 per cent of certain farm and industrial production in excess of domestic consumption. The further argument that cotton and tobacco growers, for example, could solve their foreign market problem by diversification of crops, takes no account of the intensified domestic competition which would result from this change. The many theories propounded for a solution of our present difficulties are for the most part remedies which might prove worse than the disease, and which would require a long term of years in which to bring about the necessary changes. As a practical people we must deal with the situation as it exists and cross each bridge as we come to it.

"We cannot at present determine whether a reconciliation will be reached between philosophies so wide apart as those of free exchange countries and the totalitarian nations. Our first problem, therefore, is that of securing greater freedom of trade with all countries. In seeking an expansion of our exports it is necessary, by commensurate imports, to provide dollar exchange abroad sufficient to secure transfer of payments in settlement of the goods we sell. This means that we must increase substantially our volume of imports. We cannot go on selling from one-half to one billion dollars annually more than we buy, irrespective of partial offsets in the so-called invisible items in our international balances."

High protectionists in Canada fondly believed when Mr. Bennett told the country he proposed to "blast" his way into the markets of the world the road had been found to permanent prosperity. The electors thought the Conservative leader had discovered something new in the shape of economic formulas. In common with other newspapers, recognizing there is no such thing as a one-way trade, we repeated warning after warning in these columns nine years ago against any interference with a trade policy which had given Canada the greatest international business exchange in her history. It was of no avail. The electors wanted a change in 1930; but what a price they paid for it! They made amends in 1935, and it is not likely they will be caught by any fancy panaceas when next they go to the polling booths.

War's Desperation

IT IS ONLY NATURAL FOR US TO BE shocked and surprised that the Japanese are now denying Red Cross food and medical supplies to Chinese refugees in cities under attack. It is cruel, inhuman, and brutal. But it is war. It is the sort of thing the League of Nations had hoped could be prevented. It is a condition which could have been changed if world statesmanship had not gone into bankruptcy through sheer indifference and incompetence.

As the desperation of a country at war increases, therefore, scruples fall away, and whatever of humanitarianism had been retained is gradually lost. Thus the new Japanese move is an index to hope long deferred in the conquest of China, and can only be read as an evidence of pressure bordering on desperation from a strain that is becoming intolerable to the Japanese as well as to the Chinese. But it can be said of the Chinese, to their lasting credit, they have no quarrel with the Japanese people. On the one occasion of a visit of Chinese airplanes to Japanese territory the only "bombs" dropped were pamphlets of good will to Japanese citizens.

Three By-elections

IN TWO OF THE THREE BY-ELECTIONS fought in Great Britain yesterday it was a question of the size of the government's majority. The third was doubtful. In the distinguished Abbey division of Westminster borough the Conservative candidate defeated an Independent Progressive by 9,678 to 4,674, a majority of 5,004, compared with a majority of 12,862 in a straight fight in 1935. None but a Conservative has held this seat since the war. The figures are as follows:

Sir Harold Webb, Conservative.....9,678
Mr. Gabriel Carritt, Ind.-Prog.....4,674

In the Aston division of Birmingham—which broke its Tory record by electing a Laborite in 1929 with a majority of 1,558—the government's majority was 5,901, or a decrease compared with that rolled up at the general election of 1935 of no less than 4,454. Yesterday's totals were:

Maj. Edward Kellett, Conservative.....12,023
Dr. Samuel Segal, Labor.....6,122

North Southwark has divided its allegiance since the Great War between Liberal and Labor representatives. No Conservative ever had a chance in this South London borough. Yesterday's result was especially interesting, however, because it saw the election of Mr. George Isaacs, a veteran Labor campaigner, who never gave up hope of winning the seat, for he had contested it five times, all unsuccessfully, since 1918, the sixth bid giving him his long-awaited victory. A National Liberal (government) defeated him by more than 6,000 votes in 1931, by 79 in 1935, while on this latest occasion he polled 5,815 votes against National Liberal Captain Henderson-Livesay's 4,322, a majority of 1,493.

While this one opposition gain does not materially change the division of voting strength in the House of Commons, the cause of Labor naturally will feel encouraged, especially when a captured seat is considered in conjunction with very substantially reduced government majorities in the other two tests. The turnout of voters in each case, incidentally, was extremely small.

Who Are "Responsible Experts"?

DELEGATES TO THE ANNUAL MEETING of the lay association of the British Columbia conference of the United Church of Canada, in session at New Westminster yesterday, heard what the press dispatch described as "conflicting views on the extent to which questions of economics and international affairs should occupy the attention of the Christian church."

Mr. W. T. Straith, third (Liberal) member for Victoria in the provincial Legislature, is reported to have advanced the contention that evangelization was the chief business of the church and that "other matters, including criticism of the existing economic system and possible embargo action against aggressor nations, should be left to responsible experts." To which Mr. Percy R. Bengough, secretary of the Vancouver and New Westminster Trades and Labor Council, replied in part with this pointed observation: "The church must interest itself not only in saving souls but in saving humanity."

It has probably escaped the Victoria Liberal member's memory that "responsible experts" torpedoed the Disarmament Conference, stabbed the League of Nations in the back, permitted Italy to rape Ethiopia, raised not a finger when Germany grabbed Austria, objected only with notes when non-interventionist countries intervened in Spain to contribute to and insure Fascist General Franco's victory, and, through lack of definite action, are permitting Japan to buy war materials with which to facilitate her airman's slaughter of defenceless and innocent Chinese women and children. And were they not "responsible experts" who traded parts of the independent sovereign state of Czechoslovakia for a temporary halt in the madman of Europe's lust for conquest? Happily, however, Mr. Chamberlain has turned his back on his former role as "appeaser extraordinary" and is now fighting humanity's cause because he knows he has the support of people who are wont to call a spade a spade.

It is worth noting, moreover, that in a one-day campaign in Victoria recently no fewer than 6,500 of our own citizens signed petitions enthusiastically endorsing the movement to put an end to Canada's part as a supplier of war materials to Japan, supporting equally enthusiastically the personal boycott of goods from aggressor countries.

As Mr. Bengough told his fellow delegates: "The church must interest itself not only in saving souls but in saving humanity." "Responsible experts" may be satisfied with dogma. Thousands of responsible citizens of Victoria are concerned with the realities—the plight of millions of innocent Chinese women and children.

A new high speed process for tenderizing beef has been evolved. A pocket-size edition of the recipe for use on restaurant steaks would be appreciated.

BIRTHPLACE OF TELEPHONE

From Edmonton Journal

Brantford, Ont., has a right to be proud of the fact that the telephone was invented there. When it found that this was not brought out in a film version of the life of Alexander Graham Bell, the council of the Ontario city protested quite properly. As a result the Canadian bookings of the picture have been canceled and the producing company has promised to interpret correctly the inventor's Brantford activities.

Boston has claimed to be the birthplace of the telephone. But some years before his death Dr. Bell cleared up the dispute between the two cities in a very definite manner. He did so when it was proposed to erect a memorial to his achievement in Brantford. He declared that there was no doubt the latter was the scene of the actual invention. The story was told by him in complete detail at the unveiling of what is a very beautiful memorial.

In addition to erecting this the people of Brantford purchased the house on the outskirts of the city where Dr. Bell carried his experiments to success. It was his father's home, to which he had come from Scotland in order to pursue his work. Each year it is visited by thousands of persons from all over the world.

From Fleet Street

By PAUL PAGE LONDON.

ARMS AND THE MEN

ANY REMAINING DOUBT that a wave of insanity is sweeping the world at the present time is quickly dispelled by "The Military Strength of the Powers"—recently published by Gollancz.

This is an account, in cold, calm language of the gigantic forces of destruction which are being feverishly piled up by the great powers in order (as they put it) to "preserve peace." The author's identity is not revealed by the publishers. He writes under the pseudonym of "Max Werner" and is, we are told, a close student of international military affairs. The book is stated to be the result of many years' research.

Many people believe that the issue of peace or war rests largely with Soviet Russia. If she decides to come wholeheartedly into the "peace front" now being built up, then potential aggressors will be faced with such overwhelming resistance that they will not risk a war, and peace will be saved. Such, at any rate, is the argument.

What does this expert say about the military power of the Soviet?

Soviet Russia, according to his estimate, could call over 12,000,000 men to the colors in an emergency, in addition to a standing army of 1,300,000. As for the weapons which these men would use, Mr. "Werner" writes: "We may assume that in the years 1935-38 the Red army doubled the number of modern weapons of offence at its disposal, and that in 1937-38 it had between 15,000 and 20,000 tanks and over 10,000 airplanes. . . . For the beginning of 1939 we may assume that the Red army will strive to reach the highest known norms of armament, and we may also assume that it will succeed in all modern weapons of offence."

There is no doubt, the author states, that the Red air force has a bigger personnel than any other air force in Europe.

MASS ATTACK BY TANKS

ONE OF THE LEADING German military publications is quoted as putting the probable war strength of the German army at a total of 300 divisions, including 20 motorized divisions and 10 cavalry divisions, 10,500 tanks and 9,000 airplanes.

No other army in the world, we are told, attaches such supreme importance to the air arm as the German army. "The air arm is regarded as the specific weapon of totalitarian warfare; as the long-distance weapon to obtain a decision in a lightning war, to attack and paralyze the enemy in his own country far behind the front lines."

German strategy regards tank warfare as "decisive," the writer states. "The tank which the Allied armies sent to smash its way through the German lines and encompass Germany's military defeat in 1918 is now to give the German army its revenge and invest it with military hegemony in the west. The leaders of the German army are planning to use the tank in numbers undreamt of by the armies of western Europe. The German army at full war strength will have all types of tank, from the light four-ton machine to the heavy 100-ton monster."

"The German army manoeuvres in the autumn of 1937 were intended to prove that the concentrated and dexterous use of the tank in masses can obtain a deep breakthrough and decide the battle even with a minimum of losses to the tank arm."

"LIGHTNING DECISION" STRATEGY

THE WRITER DECLARES that the chief task of German strategy in its war preparations is to organize an attack which will bring about a lightning decision. "Victory must be won in the first phase of the war," he states, "and the German army is being prepared to take the utmost advantage of its initiative, the suddenness with which its blow will fall, and the complete surprise of the enemy. . . . Germany's new war doctrine considers it quite possible to win the war in the first powerful rush."

In this section the author quotes a description of "the planned German invasion," published in the official organ of the German War Ministry. It is by General Guderian, commander-in-chief of the German armored divisions, "destined to lead this surprise attack." This is how it begins:

"One night the doors of airplane hangars and army garages will be flung back, motors will be tuned up, and squadrons will swing into movement. The first sudden blow may capture important industrial and raw-material districts or destroy them by air attack so that they can take no part in war production. . . ."

In the event of war, Mr. "Werner" states, France could call up to 6,000,000 men to the colors, of whom 4,500,000 would be trained reserves. In addition France possesses very considerable reserves in manpower and material in her colonial empire, and these, he says, could be readily used for her national defence. The French navy is the strongest navy in continental Europe and the French fortification system is the finest in the world.

BRITAIN'S ECONOMIC STRENGTH

THE FRENCH AIR FORCE at one time had serious weaknesses. France took no part in the great revolution in air strategy in the years 1930-32, when both the Soviet Union and Italy stressed the importance of the air arm. But later the reconstruction of the French air force was undertaken, and in the years 1935-36 it had almost 1,200 first-line machines (that is, modern machines organized to take the air at a moment's notice).

Commenting on the British rearmament efforts, the author writes: "From now on the economic resources of the British Empire must be calculated in the international armament race."

Vernon Kellogg, 1867-1937, Comments On Germany

By WATSON DAVIS

FRIENDS OF Vernon Kellogg have brought together words and memories into a beautiful book—a memorial he would have liked. Dr. Vernon Kellogg, a great biologist, lived 70 eventful years that ended two years ago. From the leaves of this volume, there comes pertinent comment on European affairs so pointed to today's news that one realizes that while time passes philosophical ideas persist.

Dr. Kellogg, during the World War in connection with Belgian relief, lived at German G.H.Q., the heart of the German army. His "Headquarters Nights" recorded his experiences. Are not these words of his, from his memorial volume's excerpt from that record, comment on Germany today?

"Theirs is a point of view that will never allow any land or people controlled by it to exist peacefully by the side of a people governed by our point of view. For their point of view does not permit of a live-and-let-live kind of carrying on. . . ."

"The creed of the Allmacht of a natural selection based on violent and fatal competitive struggle is the gospel of the German intellectuals; all else is illusion and anathema. . . ."

"Struggle—bitter, ruthless struggle—is the rule among the different human groups. This struggle not only must go on, for that is the natural law; but it should go on, so that this natural law may work out in its cruel, inevitable way the salvation of the human species. . . ."

"That human group which is in the most advanced evolutionary stage as regards internal organization and form of social relationship is best, and should, for the sake of the species, be preserved at the expense of the less advanced, the less effective. . . . This is the disheartening kind of argument that I faced. . . . Add the assumption that the Germans are the chosen race, and German social and political organization the chosen type of human community life, and you have a wall of logic and conviction that you can break your head against but can never shatter—by headwork. You long for the muscles of Samson."

SHIELDING THE STARS

Jimmie Fidler's Hollywood Column

At long last, the movie colony is taking up arms against the pestiferous gentry who make their livings by guiding tourist parties on "tours of the stars' homes." The fact that our celebs have suffered this long, without protest, speaks more for their patience than for their good sense; for the professional guides, again and again, have made themselves objectionable. Perhaps movie stars owe a great debt to their public, but the debt doesn't include the necessity of tolerating a bus-load of gaping sightseers, parked in front of one's private residence while a raucous-voiced guide gives the family history through a megaphone.

Does College Pay? Asks Curious U.S. Writer

THAT QUESTION has been asked by more and more anxious parents in recent years. Does it pay in dollars and cents, that is?

Best and strongest light ever thrown on the question, perhaps, now comes from a study by the U.S. Office of Education, which compiled data from 31 colleges, covering 46,000 alumni graduated between 1928 and 1935.

Here are some of the more interesting things revealed:

1. Of the men, 58 per cent, and of the women, 61 per cent have never been unemployed since graduation. Ninety-eight per cent of the men and 99 per cent of the women have never been on relief. Ninety-six per cent of the men and 93 per cent of the women reporting are today either temporarily or permanently employed, though many took a year or two to connect with the job.

2. The average typical college man one year out of school is making about $1,314 a year; and after eight years he has climbed to $2,383. For women the average salaries were, first year, $1,092; eighth year, $1,606.

3. Nearly two-thirds of the graduates go into the professions, and after eight years about 19 per cent are owners or part owners of their business. More than half gravitate into cities of 100,000 population or over.

4. Of married alumni in the group surveyed, 57 per cent of the men and 61 per cent of the women report no children. To 12,233 men graduates were born 7,727 children; to 6,359 women graduates were born 3,463. The divorce rate among college graduates is lower than among people in general.

COLLEGE VALUE VANISHED?

THERE'S YOUR picture. A young fellow goes to college. He graduates at about 22. He gets a job fairly quickly at about $25 a week. Not much, maybe, but better than the income of the average wage-earner. After eight years he's married, getting about $45, with less than a 50-50 chance of having children to support. There is one chance in five that by that time he'll be his own boss.

That's pretty good proof that the pre-depression picture of the value of college has vanished. In those days it was: graduate, become a bond salesman, and make a million within five years.

Today the picture is less flamboyant and very much more realistic. The college degree today is no touchstone, no guarantee of monetary success. It never was. The greatest value of the college diploma today, as always, must be sought in other places than the pocketbook, in other values than those which may be set down in a checkbook.

AGRICULTURAL ESTIMATES VOTED

OTTAWA (CP)—All agricultural estimates for 1939-40, including $3,250,000 for the prairie farm rehabilitation scheme, have been passed by the House of Commons.

Through morning, afternoon and evening sittings yesterday, Hon. J. G. Gardiner, Minister of Agriculture, piloted the last $12,000,000 of the farm estimates.

Praise for the Prairie Farm Rehabilitation Act came from all sides of the House, but from A. H. Mitchell, Social Credit, Medicine Hat, came a warning against allowing it to become political.

"If it is to become a political machine, the whole intrinsic value of the P.F.R.A. will be greatly reduced," he declared. In reply to an earlier criticism from E. E. Perley, Conservative, Qu'Appelle, Sask., Mr. Gardiner explained that a $7,085 traveling expense item under the name of J. I. Mutchler actually included expenses of 10 rod and instrument men working under Mutchler.

Dr. Thomas Donnelly, Liberal, Wood Mountain, Sask., and Charles Evans, Liberal, Maple Creek, Sask., enthusiastically endorsed the rehabilitation work being carried out. Mr. Evans said 90 per cent of the people who had had P.F.R.A. service were completely satisfied.

Dr. Donnelly said the large irrigation schemes were only good to show people what could be done in that direction.

"If western Canada has to depend on irrigation alone, then it has seen its best days and the future is not very good," he observed.

Tuberculosis claims at least one-eighth of all deaths the world over.

WEDDINGS

McCRIMMON-BEVAN

A quiet but pretty wedding was solemnized on Wednesday afternoon, at 2, at the Metropolitan United Church Manse, between Miss Christine Alma (Baba) Bevan, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. H. Bevan of "Nortonia," Walton Street, and Leslie McCrimmon, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. A. McCrimmon, Rockland Avenue. Rev. A. E. Whitehouse officiated in the presence of immediate relatives of both contracting parties.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, was attractively attired in a turquoise blue wool suit with trapunto embroidery and trimmed in japonica and hat and accessories in japonica. She wore a corsage bouquet of gardenias.

Miss Margaret Nason, the bride's only attendant, chose a rose-pink suit with white hat and lace mittens, a corsage bouquet completing her toilette.

A reception was held afterwards at the home of the bride's parents, where the bride's mother received the guests attired in a navy-blue suit with smart picture hat and navy accessories. She was assisted by the groom's mother, who chose a green and gold silk ensemble with green accessories. Both wore corsage bouquets of carnations and gardenias.

The bride and groom stood in front of the fireplace, which was banked for the occasion with greenery and fern, with two tall blue standard baskets filled with spirea and tall blue iris on either side, to receive the felicitations of the assembled guests.

The dining table was attractively covered with a Venetian lace cloth, centred with the bridal cake, surrounded by small silver vases filled with thrift and lily of the valley and tall white candles in silver holders. Low silver bowls of pink carnations stood at each extreme end of the table, reflected in mirrors. A buffet supper was served.

Later the bride and groom left on the Seattle boat where they will spend their honeymoon. The bride left in a navy suit with accessories to match and will make their home at the Victoria House Apartments, Rockland Avenue, upon their return.

MASTERS-POTTER

Bound for Victoria to make their home here for part of the year are the principals in a smart wedding which took place in the Protestant Chapel of the Naval Training Station, San Diego, on May 5, when Miss Elizabeth Potter, daughter of Mrs. Stanley W. Holmes of 930 Foul Bay Road, and Mr. Alfred D. Masters Jr., naval aviation cadet, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Masters, Terre Haute, Ind. The chapel was banked with palms and decorated in white flowers and greenery for the ceremony, performed by Chaplain R. Truitt.

The bride wore a bouffant gown of white point d'esprit and a tulle veil which fell from a rose point crown, which was first worn by Mrs. Henry Lippitt, and carried an exquisite bouquet of California orange blossoms and white iris. Her maid of honor was Miss Ann Reed, who wore a gown with the wind frock of pink net, and carried blue delphinium. Her head-dress was formed of blue forget-me-nots. Miss Nan Watson and Miss Barbara Lippitt, bridesmaids, carried pale pink delphinium to contrast with their blue net bouffant frocks. They wore French bouquets of Cecil Brunners in their hair.

Cadet T. E. S. McCabe was best man. Mrs. Holmes, mother of the bride, wore camellias on her French blue net gown. Her hat was a smoky pink straw model. At the garden reception, the bride's table was centred with the cake and decorated with white bride gladioli. Mrs. Hazel Cook, Miss Sarah Brock, Mrs. William Paxton Cary and Mrs. Clinton Abbott presided at the tea and coffee table.

The bride attended Norfolk House School, Victoria, and La Marjolaine, Geneva, Switzerland. Mr. Masters graduated from George Washington University in Washington, D.C.

WALKER-VINCENT

A former Victorian was the bridegroom at an interesting wedding solemnized in Christ Church Cathedral, Vancouver, last evening at 8, when Mr. Guido H. Walker, son of Mr. P. deNoe Walker of Victoria, deputy provincial secretary, and Mrs. A. F. Walker of San Francisco, was married to Marjorie Alice, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Vincent of Vancouver.

Dean Ramsay Armitage performed the ceremony in the Cathedral, which was beautifully decorated with bridal wreath and white lilac banked on the chancel steps, and pink tulips at the altar.

Mr. Vincent gave his daughter in marriage. She made a charming picture in her gown of white silk starched pet inset with lace, over white tulle, with a heart-shaped neckline, puffed short sleeves, and the full skirt flaring to a train. Her fingertip veil was caught at the crown with white gardenias and lily of the valley, and she carried a bouquet of similar flowers.

Miss Mima McDonald was matron of honor in a pretty frock of embroidered white starched silk net, with gored skirt, and puffed sleeves, the waist fastened at the back with tiny buttons and girdled with apple-green velvet, with touches of the velvet at throat and sleeves. Her tiny flower hat was veiled in apple-green, and her shoes and elbow-length gloves were in the same shade. She carried an arm bouquet of bronze snapdragons and yellow iris.

Mr. Boyd Brown was groomsmen, and Mr. W. A. Vincent and Mr. E. W. Vincent, brothers of the bride, and Messrs. E. Mullins and E. Harvey were ushers.

RECEPTION AT HOTEL

After the ceremony, a reception was held in the York room of the Hotel Georgia. Mr. Vincent received the guests in a gown of queen's blue corded silk with tailored jacket trimmed with American Beauty velvet, and navy hat trimmed with the American Beauty velvet, and a corsage bouquet of Tallman roses and lily of the valley. She was assisted by the groom's sister, Mrs. Rupert Sandy, wearing spring-green crepe, with a matching jacket trimmed at the cuffs with fox, violet accessories and a corsage bouquet of cream roses and violets, and Mrs. P. de Noe Walker of Victoria, wearing a gold lace gown with matching jacket and hat en suite, and a corsage bouquet of red roses. The buffet supper was served from a table centred with the tiered wedding cake on a silver stand, flanked by pink carnations in silver vases and pink tapers in silver candelabra, Mrs. E. Fish and Mrs. B. Brown presiding at the tea and coffee urns. Out-of-town guests at the wedding included: Mr. and Mrs. P. de Noe Walker, Victoria; Miss L. Arnold of Sardinia, and Mr. and Mrs. C. Martin, Cloverdale, B.C.

Mr. and Mrs. Walker left for a honeymoon trip by motor to the lakes in the interior; the bride traveling in a teal blue dress-maker coat, over a japonica tan frock, with accessories to match, and a corsage bouquet of Tallman roses and blue iris. They will make their home at New Westminster.

HIGH SCHOOL ALUMNI DANCE

Tomorrow evening the Victoria High School Alumni Association will present another of its popular dances in the upper ballroom of the Crystal Garden from 9 till 1.

The entertainment committee has prepared an interesting program of exhibition numbers and prize dances by pupils of the Florence Clough Dancing Academy. Miss Doreen Robson and Phillip Barnes will present a "Cuban Rhumba," and Miss Zaida Wille a novelty tap dance. Programs bearing the Alumni crest will be interesting souvenirs of the dance. The music for dancing will be supplied by Zala's five-piece orchestra.

The monthly meeting of the Young Women's Auxiliary of Knox Presbyterian Church was held on Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. R. Scoble, 603 Francis Avenue, the president, Miss Peggy McPhail, presiding. After the prayer and Scripture reading, the treasurer's report was received, and general business discussed. Miss Middleton gave a talk which was much enjoyed. The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. H. W. Curtis, 1817 Camosun Street, on June 20. The meeting closed with the Myzaph benediction, after which a social half hour was spent.

Queen Chooses Pompadour Gown for Quebec Dinner

In Rose-satin Panniered, Sequined Gown and Diamonds; Ladies-in-Waiting Choose Pastel Tones; Grey Popular At Earlier Functions.

QUEBEC (CP)—The Queen last night presented another portrait in the fashion salons of the world when she made her first appearance in Canada in evening dress.

Pale rose satin twinkling with copper and pink star sequins, fashioned the pompadour crinoline gown Her Majesty wore. The panniered skirt looped with festoons of satin was caught with clusters of soft La France roses. A diamond tiara encircled her soft brown hair and she wore an exquisite necklace of diamonds.

Her Majesty's ladies-in-waiting, Lady Nunburnholme and Lady Katherine Seymour, chose gowns in pastel tints in complement to Her Majesty's dress.

Lady Nunburnholme wore pale blue satin, embroidered with pearls and sequins and Lady Seymour's gown was pale mauve net, with all-over pattern of pearls and sequins on its puffed skirt.

Both ladies-in-waiting wore a diamond "E" pinned to their gowns by a pale blue satin ribbon, their only decoration while attending Her Majesty.

Also in attendance with the Royal entourage was Mrs. George Pape, lady-in-waiting to Lady Tweedsmuir, wife of Canada's Governor-General, gowned in dusty pink net, with extremely full skirt and low décolleté. A simple diamond tiara and pearls completed her costume.

GREY AND BLUE

QUEBEC (CP)—Simplicity of style set by the Queen on her first appearance among Canadian women was echoed in the costumes worn by wives of top-ranking dignitaries attending the formal ceremonies and luncheon arranged for Their Majesties yesterday.

Light wool outfits and printed silks in grey and blue tone and furs were costumes of the day because of the short intervals between ceremonies attending the Royal Visit.

Her Majesty's morning ensemble of pearl grey triple-sheer, falling in cape effect, the hem banded in Canadian "smoky" fox, became a luncheon gown when the Queen removed her long coat and added a long scarf of the same grey-brown fox.

Like the Queen, Mrs. E. L. Patenaude, wife of the Lieutenant-Governor of Quebec and first Canadian woman to be presented to Their Majesties, wore a grey ensemble of light wool. A small purple hat and purple shoes completed her ensemble.

Grey again was the shade worn by Mrs. Lucien Borne, wife of Quebec's mayor.

LADY CAMPBELL

Lady Campbell, wife of Sir Gerald Campbell, British High Commissioner in Canada, chose a morning ensemble of dawn blue crepe, figured in white with plain blue redingote, and white hat.

Mrs. D. De Waal Meyer, wife of the South African accredited representative in Canada, wore a tailored ensemble in navy blue with touches of white and a perky white hat banded in blue.

Sables topped the King's blue moire suit worn over a shell pink blouse by Mrs. Ernest Lapointe, wife of the Minister of Justice.

Mrs. C. G. Power, wife of Canada's pensions minister, wore a trim-fitting model in pale grey wool, with fine lace top in square-shouldered effect.

Mrs. J. L. Hsieh, wife of the revenue minister, wore a printed silk frock in light blue tone under a blue redingote.

SILVER FOXES

Silver foxes were worn with the tailored blue and white ensemble worn by Mrs. Norman Rogers, wife of the labor minister.

Mrs. Norman McLarty, wife of the Postmaster-General, wore a navy blue model with burnt leather accessories.

Blue was again favored in the sheer and crepe outfit with black fox cape worn by Mrs. MacKinnon, wife of Hon. J. A. MacKinnon, minister without portfolio.

Mrs. C. A. Dunning, wife of the finance minister, wore a jacket dress in grey wool with deep blue flowers at the neck, and on the crown of her small grey hat.

A navy blue and white ensemble was worn by Mrs. J. E. Michaud, wife of the fisheries minister.

Silver foxes topped the tailored, two-piece outfit worn by Mrs. W. D. Euler, wife of the trade minister. Her accessories were in burgundy tone.

Mrs. C. D. Howe, wife of the Dominion Minister of Transport, was frocked in grey wool with long matching coat and violet-toned hat.

Navy blue and white ensembles were chosen by Mrs. W. E. Foster, wife of the Speaker of the Senate, and Mrs. Pierre F. Casgrain, wife of the Speaker of the House of Commons.

Social and Personal

Mrs. Ralph Gordon went over to Vancouver yesterday and is the guest of her mother, Mrs. William Sulley, at Caulfield until the end of the week.

The members of the F. B. Club assembled on the beach at Shoal Bay yesterday afternoon and later were entertained at tea at the home of Mrs. Kenneth R. Waterman, St. Patrick Street. The next meeting of the club will be held on Thursday, May 25, at the home of Mrs. M. Fletcher, 1320 Grant Street.

Pictured as she returned to New York after more than 40 years in Europe, the Duchess de Talleyrand, former Anna Gould, has bought her girlhood home, a 600-acre showplace near Tarrytown, N.Y., and is reported planning to live there permanently. Her marriage in 1895 to Count Boni de Castellane was a sensation of the "gay nineties."

Educational Films Shown By I.O.D.E.

Before interested audiences in the Chamber of Commerce yesterday afternoon and evening an interesting movie-tone film and concert were presented under the auspices of the Florence Nightingale and Robert Burns McMicking Chapters, I.O.D.E.

"Wheels Across Africa," which took 18 months to make by Armand Denis and Leila Roosevelt, was the featured film, showing a journey over 42,000 miles in Dodge automobiles and trucks along primitive roads, through the Sahara Desert and towed through rivers by elephants.

Starting at Antwerp, moving pictures were shown of a trip through Belgium, France, Spain and the Straits of Gibraltar to Africa; then to French Morocco, French Sudan, British Kenya and Zanzibar, showing the wild life and native peoples.

The program opened with an educational film by the Frigidale Corporation of Canada, showing the process of manufacture of the cabinets, while the details of the workings of the Frigidale were clearly demonstrated.

MUSICAL NUMBERS

Taking part in the concert in the afternoon were Dorothy and Evelyn McLaren, singing and dancing numbers; songs by Bruce Allen, and recitations by Sylvia Welch. In the evening, novelty dances were given by pupils of Mona Jewell. Those taking part were Ena Foyer, Joan Cromack, Helen MacDonald, Ruby Foyer, Jean Carter, Joan Amison, Valerie McAllister, Hugh Randy, Marjorie Graham, Jerry Long, Vera, Hazel and Joan Pearson, Winnie Brown and Kathleen Stromkins. The accompanist was Catherine Hamilton.

Mrs. James Baker of the Florence Nightingale Chapter, and Mrs. C. Wallace Wilson of the Robert Burns McMicking Chapter, convened the arrangements, and the concert was under the direction of Mrs. Jack Gillis of the Florence Nightingale Chapter and Miss Elsie Jenkins of Robert Burns McMicking Chapter.

Able Presswomen Are Assigned to Royal Tour

U.S. and Canadian Journalists to Join Special Train

OTTAWA — Three Canadian and four American women who are practical newspaper reporters, some with experience in many parts of the world, will be among the 70-odd members of the profession who will "cover" the tour of King George VI and Queen Elizabeth through Canada and the United States.

Attached to the pilot train carrying press people and photographers will be Dixie Tighe of the New York Post; Inez Robb, International News Service writer; Pearl Strachan of the Christian Science Monitor; Grace Davidson of the Boston Post; Nancy Pyper, feature writer of the Toronto Telegram; Jessie MacTaggart of the Toronto Star, and Muriel Adams, Canadian Press, staff writer.

Common sense won Dixie Tighe her first news "scoop" 18 years ago when she was assigned by the Washington Times to find out if Mrs. Alice Roosevelt Longworth was expecting an heir. By candidly telephoning her she got the story while her competitors were trying devious methods to obtain the same information. She is married to C. V. R. Thompson, American correspondent for the London Daily Express, and "simply adores" him. Her daily column, "Going Places," covers New York society for the Post.

COVERED CORONATION

Inez Robb, who covered the Coronation from a press box in Westminster Abbey. Rated as one of America's foremost newspaperwomen, her sparkling humor, attractive appearance and twinkling blue eyes have won her welcome in all newsrooms.

In 1924 she landed her first newspaper job on the Daily World in Tulsa, Okla., and later became a feminine "Pepys," keeping the public amused, through International News Service, with her

Born in Nottingham, England, Pearl Strachan is the only one of the seven claiming British background. Rising from the ranks, Miss Strachan was for a number of years corresponding secretary of the editorial board of the Christian Science Monitor. Through her contributions to the feature page and essay columns her work became so popular she was assigned wholly to the editorial page staff.

COVERED MANY COUNTRIES

Grace Davidson of the Boston Post had tripped through nearly all the European countries chasing big stories and interviewing personalities.

A tall Irish woman with smiling eyes and a cheery manner, Nancy Pyper came to Canada before the Great War and spent many years in the west, eventually joining the Winnipeg Tribune staff. Interested in dramatics, she acted as theatrical director of Hart House, Toronto, for several years, as well as feature writer for the Telegram.

For 10 years Jessie MacTaggart has held her own man-sized assignments since she dismissed the thought of becoming a physical science expert at University of Toronto.

MURDERS TO CONVENTIONS

Small and blond, Jessie has covered everything from murders to medical conventions. She has never forgotten her three years of free lunches on her first news-beat on the old Toronto Mail and Empire and is still thrilled about her biggest news coup when she thought she had discovered Ambrose J. Small, whose mysterious disappearance remains unsolved. Until a few months ago she was a reporter on the Toronto Globe and Mail but now keeps her typewriter in the Toronto Star newsroom.

Youngest member of the women newswriting corps on the Royal Tour, Muriel Adams has been assigned to the Ottawa Bureau of the Canadian Press for the past two sessions writing features and the woman's point of view in parliamentary activities. Previously she was on the women's staff of the Calgary Albertan.

Here's Economy... MIRACLE WHIP in handy canning jars!

I SAVE MONEY BY GETTING MIRACLE WHIP IN BIG JARS. MY FAMILY JUST GOBBLES IT UP!

MINE TOO! BESIDES, THE BIG JARS ARE SO HANDY FOR CANNING

THAT'S RIGHT! Miracle Whip in the large 32-oz. or 56-oz. jars is economical in two ways. Most families eat so much of this famous dressing that it pays to buy it in quantity. And the handy jars are all ready for canning use!

This economy feature is only one reason why Miracle Whip is the world's favorite salad dressing. Millions prefer the "different" flavor of Miracle Whip to any other dressing. This combination of true mayonnaise and old-fashioned boiled dressing contains far more of the costly ingredients that make the difference between fine and ordinary salad dressings. It's whipped to velvety smoothness in the exclusive Kraft Miracle Whip beater.

You're getting a better value all around when you buy Miracle Whip! In flavor, quality, and the extra use you get from your jar. Ask for the world's favorite salad dressing this way: "A big jar of Miracle Whip."

Planning a Summer Vacation?

When are you planning to take your summer vacation? Is it now in the smiling month of May or is it in the middle of summer? Perhaps it may be in September or even October? Whenever it is, you are thinking and planning for it this very minute, wondering where you will go and how much money you'll have to spend.

Vacation planning is really very easy when you remember that right at your own front door is the most charming and varied vacationland on the Pacific coast. From Victoria, north to the end of the Island or Port Alberni highways, Vancouver Island gives you a choice of any type of holiday you may wish. There are mountains, lakes, rivers, woodlands and seashores. There are beautiful hotels, attractive resorts, charming guest-houses, modern up-to-date auto camps and cheerful little cottages and cabins. You may take your dance frocks, your play togs, your swim suits and your hiking clothes and you'll find use for each and every costume. Could anyone wish for more in their choice for a grand summer holiday?

PLACES TO GO

Saanich Peninsula—A pleasant drive from Victoria through green woodlands and by rolling farmlands. There are tiny bays and sandy beaches, golf courses, tennis courts and riding horses. There are summer spots, too, tucked into secluded corners all around the peninsula. Worth consideration for a day, a week or a month's holiday.

Sooke—Another pleasant run from Victoria is either to East Sooke, which takes the pleasure-seeker along the waterfront for many miles, or to West Sooke, where the road winds inland from the sea until it touches Sooke Harbor and the many beauty spots found there. East Sooke and West Sooke have much that makes for a perfect holiday.

Mill Bay—Just on the other side of the Malahat. One hour's run from Victoria. Good road. Bus service. A beautiful, sweeping shoreline giving the effect of a landlocked lake. Mount Baker looms far in the distance. There is fishing and swimming and many other summer attractions.

Shawnigan Lake—A tiny mountain lake set like a jewel in the shadow of green hills just a few miles off the main Island Highway near the summit of the Malahat. The air is crisp and healthful, filled with the essence of mountain evergreens. Here, there is sport for all.

Cowichan Bay—Again a landlocked bay surrounded by green sloping hills. There is much of interest in this district both for those who love the water or the quiet beauty of hills and wood land trails. Cowichan Bay is known far and wide for its excellent fishing.

Saltair—A delightful little vacation spot with one of the most beautiful views on Vancouver Island. There is boating and fishing and warm sea bathing as well as many games courts and other summer attractions. Saltair has the name of bringing health back to many who have stayed in this sunny district.

Yellow Point—Nine miles north of Ladysmith a winding road leaves the Island Highway, to wind in and out through tall green trees where green slopes run down to the sea and where carpets of wild flowers bloom throughout the summer. Delightfully cool on the hottest day, Yellow Point boasts warm sea bathing. There are facilities here for yachts and small seagoing craft.

Nanose Bay—Here starts the great sweep of sandy shoreline that does not end until it reaches Comox much farther north. Here, too, is a beautiful view over blue waters and tiny green islands to snow-capped peaks on the far mainland shore. Nanose Bay is a quiet, peaceful spot to make a headquarters for exploration farther north on the Island.

Wall Beach—A perfect place for children. There is a safe sandy beach, warm sea bathing, a shoreline dotted with great cedar trees and the clean smell of the sea over all.

Parksville—Sandy beaches, pleasant auto camps, well-kept farmlands and beautiful country residences. All make Parksville a most desirable place to spend a vacation.

Cameron Lake—Again a mountain lake high in the hills. The winding road is a thing of beauty here, every curve presenting another perfect picture. Just beyond Cameron Lake is Cathedral Grove with its mighty trees, and Mount Arrowsmith, the highest mountain on Vancouver Island.

Qualicum—Here is a vacation district that is known far and wide. The beach with its wide sandbar of clean, silvery sand, the surrounding district filled with rivers, streams and falls, the fishing and the mountains in the background make Qualicum an ideal holiday land.

Forbidden Plateau—For a mountain holiday there is none better. There are lakes and rivers and hills. There are mountain flowers and strange rock formations. There is the red snow, a mystery that defies explanation. The Forbidden Plateau certainly should not be overlooked in this year's holiday plans.

NANAIMO LIBERAL CLUB ENTERTAINS

NANAIMO—Nanaimo Senior Liberal Association entertained a large crowd in the Eagles Hall Monday evening following their regular business meeting. It was one of a series of social gatherings planned by the Senior 20th Century Club and the Ladies Forum. Cyril Longdon presided.

A Nanaimo team composed of Edward Anderson and C. Murray Reynolds, taking the negative side, won a spirited debate against a Duncan team composed of Arnold Flett and W. M. Allison, affirmative, on a resolution passed at the B.C. Liberal Association convention at Kelowna last year, "Resolved that this convention urge the federal government to initiate a national compulsory scheme for retirement allowances; that this convention recommends reduction of age for eligibility of old age pensions, as soon as may be possible and that the regulations be modified so as to eliminate existing hardships on the aged peoples of Canada."

The judges were Peter McKay, president of the Cowichan New-castle Liberal Association; Maurice Dumont, president of Lady-smith 20th Century Club, and Bob Young of Ladysmith.

Leo Le Pass was accompanist and Jack Ward lead the community singing. Paramount orchestra provided music for dancing.

FIRST AID PLANS FOR VISIT MADE

Adequate first aid and public convenience arrangements have been made for school children coming from up-island centres for the Royal Visit, Dr. Richard Felton, city health officer, announced today.

The St. John Ambulance Association, with Dr. Felton, will be in charge of approximately two dozen first aid stations located strategically along the route of the Royal procession. Several units will be housed in service stations, some in stores and others in private homes of members of the association.

Popular Saanich Teacher Resigns

I.R.A. Men Fight in London Police Court

LONDON (CP)—Two alleged members of the outlawed Irish Republican Army attempted to fight their way out of the prisoners' dock in the Old Bailey police court today after they had been sentenced to prison terms for violation of the Explosives Act.

The convicted men were identified as John Foley, 26, and Patrick Kelly, 25. They were charged with possessing explosives.

After the presiding justice had sentenced Foley to five years' penal servitude and Kelly to 10 years they attempted to escape from the dock, but were overpowered by five wardens.

Tamulis Hard-Luck Pitcher

Sports Mirror

By PETE SALLAWAY

SIX MORE old-timers were added recently to the list of those who will be honored with plaques in Baseball's Hall of Fame at Cooperstown, N.Y. They are Charles (Old Hoss) Radbourne, Albert G. Spalding, Adrian C. (Cap) Anson, William Arthur Cummings, Charles A. (the Old Roman) Comiskey and William (Buck) Ewing. There can be no doubt but that five of them belong there. Whether the sixth should be selected over some others who have been mentioned, depends on the premise on which Cummings was included.

Radbourne is esteemed as one of the greatest pitchers of the game, dating back to the early history of organized ball. Albert G. Spalding not only was a great pitcher, but he also headed clubs and became one of the leading manufacturers of baseball equipment. Cap Anson and Charles A. Comiskey were notable first basemen and great leaders on the field; while Cummings, with the assistance of Ban Johnson, was a prime mover in the organization of the American League and later owner of the Chicago White Sox. Buck Ewing is esteemed as one of the greatest catchers in the previous century. All contributed much to the advancement of the game and richly deserve the honor bestowed on them, years after their deaths.

However, many are at a loss to account for the selection of Cummings over others whose records in the game are more impressive, even though his inclusion is based on the claim that he was the first curve-ball pitcher. So far as documentary proof is concerned, the distinction of being the first to perfect the curve seems to be shared equally by Fred E. Goldsmith and Cummings, and no conclusive evidence has yet been produced to show that one preceded the other. Cummings' career antedates that of Goldsmith, but Goldsmith served longer in organized ball.

The chief regret, however, will be felt over the failure to include James L. (Deacon) White among those to be honored this year, the centennial of the game, when the hall of fame is to be formally dedicated. Not only did White have a long and honorable career in the game, dating as far back as 1866, but he is the oldest living player, major or minor.

Baseball passed up a great opportunity to capitalize on sentiment in ignoring this grand old man of the game, now in his 90's, whose waning years could have been glorified by personally seeing his name inscribed in the hall of fame, which is dedicated to the sport he so long adored.

No one begrudges the inclusion of any name, and it is only unfortunate that more cannot be honored. However, comparing the record of several already honored to that of Deacon White, the only living link between the game of long ago and that of today, and a man whose life almost spans the history of the sport itself, it appears that somebody muffed one.

Brooklyn Southpaw Sees 19-Inning Game End in Tie; His Second Draw

Everything happens to left-handed pitchers and Brooklyn Dodgers, so now they have the uncrowned hard-luck champion of the major leagues — Vitatius C. Tamulis.

Except that Vito is well fed in these perilous times it might not be amiss to label him the champion of the world. He lost a chance with the world champion New York Yankees through no fault of his own, and that is there in tough breaks in baseball. Vito ran into hard luck yesterday when the Dodgers' game with Chicago Cubs was ruled a tie after 19 innings of fighting and fumbling in windswept Wrigley Field — the longest game in major history was a 1 to 1 tie in 26 innings played by Brooklyn and Boston Braves on May 1, 1920.

Yesterday's game also was the second tie of this 1939 season and the other involved the Dodgers and Tamulis. That was a 1 to 1 affair, also ended by darkness, at Philadelphia, April 21, as Tamulis made his season's bow with a five-hit, five-strikeout job.

The chunky southpaw always has been a winning pitcher, but has had a hard time proving it. He joined the Yankees after a good season with Newark in the International in 1934 and pitched an impressive seven-hit victory which earned him a berth with New York for 1935, when he appeared in 30 games, winning 10 and losing five.

SHIPPED TO MINORS

But he became ill, was sent back to Newark and by the time he was able to go again the Yankees weren't needing southpaws.

He was obtained by St. Louis Browns last year and after dropping his first three starts, was waived to Brooklyn, where he produced a dozen victories.

He was the third hurler called upon yesterday, and he reeled off 11 scoreless innings on four hits. With the temperature at about 45 degrees, cold fingers contributed nine errors to the early inning scoring, but the batters never had a chance against Tamulis and rookie Walter Higbe, who worked the last seven innings for the Cubs on one hit.

Monte Pearson, although wild, held St. Louis Browns to four hits as the Yankees won their seventh straight, 4 to 3. Bill Dietrich and Clint Brown gave up only five in Chicago White Sox's 6 to 3 10-inning triumph over the Boston Red Sox, and Rookie Walter Masterson scattered six singles in Washington's 4 to 1 victory over Detroit Tigers. Philadelphia and Cleveland took the day off.

In the National, Hugh Mulcahy limited the Pittsburgh Pirates to five hits for the Phillies' 7 to 3 conquest, Bucky Walters spread seven for Cincinnati against Boston Bees to win 6 to 1 and the New York Giants beat the St. Louis Cardinals 9 to 5.

COAST LEAGUE

A perfect punt by centerfielder Jo-Jo White put Seattle's rising Suds only one game behind the first-place Los Angeles Angels in the Coast Baseball League today.

White's third-inning rap at Portland last night enabled one run to cross the plate and give Seattle a 1 to 0 win over Portland, while San Francisco's Seals knocked over Angels in a close one at San Francisco, 5 to 4.

Seattle's solitary run was the result of a squeeze play by second baseman, Joe Morrissey and White. Morrissey singled, stole second and reached third when Dick Barrett grounded out.

Then White came to the plate, put on the squeeze and laid down such a perfect bunt that Morrissey not only tallied but Jo-Jo reached first safely.

Lou Koupal went the route for the Seals, holding angels to seven hits.

At Hollywood, Oakland made it two in a row over the Stars, 3 to 1, as Clarence Buxton allowed only six hits.

San Diego's Padres moved up one place to fifth in the standings and dropped Sacramento from fifth to seventh in a day game at San Diego, beating the (Turn to Page 12, Col. 1)

Soccer Players Get Real Rough

DeCosta of Navy Eleven Sent Off for Fighting; Robbins Holds Up Game

Yesterday's soccer games, which opened the Wednesday Football League's Adam Cup series, had their interesting features.

At Central Park, Louis DeCosta, star netminder of the Navy eleven, did not like the way Bert Fogden of the Hudson's Bay team charged him in the goal area so he retaliated with a hard blow to the face and was promptly expelled from the game, then 15 minutes old.

Over at Heywood Avenue powerful Glen Robbins of the Victoria City squad voiced his sentiments in strong language to Referee Bill Cull over a foul given against a teammate and was ordered from the field for ungentlemanly conduct. He refused to leave and the referee called a halt to the game. There was still 10 minutes of play left.

The outcome of the Central Park tussle was a 3 to 2 verdict for Manager Cy Nicholls' Hudson's Bay eleven. The outcome of the City-Spencers game is still in doubt. City was leading 1 to 0 at the time of Robbins' sit-down strike and as he refused to obey the order of the arbiter it is quite likely it will cost his teammates the game. However, a replay of the match might be ordered.

The Heywood Avenue engagement was an interesting affair. Both front ranks lacked finish and consequently missed numerous chances to score. City, with only 10 men in uniform, did most of the attacking during the game, but Spencers took the ball into enemy territory many times, too, but couldn't seem to get their sights trained on the goal-mouth.

Only goal of the game was scored by Sammy Essler, left-winger for City. His teammates took the ball away from a pressing Spencers team and Essler got his foot to it after a passing movement from the opposite wing and fired the ball between the sticks. This came after 23 minutes of the second half.

The call that got Robbins riled was that given against Sammy Essler for fouling Richards.

FOGGEN BAGS TRIO

Fogden, who was allowed to stay in the game as the referee said he did not return DeCosta's blow, was the star man in the Navy-Bays game. He tallied all three markers for the H.B.C.'s.

With sun, wind and the slope of the field in their favor, Bays built up a 2 to 0 lead in the first half through Fogden's booting with DeCosta guarding the net. DeCosta was replaced by Bill Mundie after his skirmish. Navy reduced the Bay lead to one goal, early in the second half when Bryce Robinson scored, but Fogden came back later to fire in his third marker, the ball going into the goal off Bob Preston.

The second Navy counter was bagged by Wilf DeCosta before the half ended. Joe Obee refereed.

The last-named rider was seriously injured in the first two hours of the race and is confined to hospital.

Grads Finish Series Conservatives Meet Indians

Defeat Cleveland Nokolds 43 to 34 for Third Straight Hoop Victory

EDMONTON (CP)—Coach J. Percy Page's theory is that in basketball accuracy is the thing. And the proof is that his Edmonton Grads have held the Canadian title every year they tried for it since 1922 and the world's championship since 1923.

The system worked again when the Albertans beat Cleveland Nokolds 43 to 34 here last night, their third straight victory in a three of five-series for the Underwood international women's basketball trophy. Grads had won the first game 61 to 32 and the second 39 to 26.

Coach Page figures if Grads can get as many shots on the basket as their opponents, his team's greater accuracy will bring victory every time. He doesn't worry how many shots the other team gets as long as his quintette has as many.

During the series against Cleveland, Grads tossed at the basket 166 times and the ball went through the hoop 60 times for an accuracy of 36.1 per cent. Nokolds scored on 37 of 151 shots for a shooting average of 24.5 per cent.

Besides chalking up a better shooting record in all three games than Nokolds, Grads made victory certain by getting more shots at the basket.

Helen Northup, who is barely more than five feet tall, and Sophie Brown, only a couple inches taller, led the Albertans as they broke through Cleveland's early defensive game. After building up a 10 to 6 lead in the first quarter, Cleveland was not able to keep up with the Grads attack, falling behind at 13 to 12 after about four minutes play in the second quarter.

Grads led 23 to 13 at half time and 33 to 23 at the three-quarters.

B.C. Eleven Takes Match

Soccer Players Who Will Tour California Whip Vancouver All-stars

VANCOUVER (CP) — Two last half goals by Mike McManus and Jimmy Spencer gave British Columbia's California-bound soccer team a 4 to 2 exhibition game victory over Vancouver All-Stars, here last night.

Close to 1,000 fans saw the two teams battle on even terms throughout the first half, which ended with both sides deadlocked 2 to 2. The winning goals came within 15 minutes after the interval.

The All-Stars opened the scoring when "Hap" Smith took a pass from Jack Johnson and hooked a left-footed shot past goalie Dan Kulal. Jimmy Spencer evened matters for the British Columbians almost immediately when goalie Stan Stronge badly misjudged his low shot to the corner of the net.

Before the end of the half, Hap Smith scored again to put the All-Stars ahead but Murray West knotted the count just before the interval by taking a pass from Horace Heath and converting it into a goal to finish the first half scoring.

SECOND HALF

Five minutes after start of the second half, Mike McManus dribbled a weak shot past Stronge to give British Columbia the lead 3 to 2 for the first time. Shortly after Jimmy Spencer scored his second goal of the game, booming in a left-footed first timer to end the scoring for the night with the British Columbians ahead 4 to 2.

BOWLING MATCH

The Victoria West Lawn Bowling Club will hold a King's Birthday game on May 20, at 2, to which members of all bowling clubs are invited to take part. The game will be mixed doubles or triples, depending on the number of entries.

Many taverns of the England of olden days sold ale by the yard. "Yard-o'-ale" glasses consisted of a long, slender tube, which ended in a bulb holding about two pints of ale.

Excess of any kind shortens your life, but that's fair enough. Nature takes you away when you have had your share.

The Royal Visit

King Has Hearty Appetite

But Queen Elizabeth Carefully Watched Her Helpings at Quebec Luncheon

By FRANK H. KING
QUEBEC (AP)—Already the British Royal Tour in America has been called "The Royal Torture," but not by King George and Queen Elizabeth.

Smiling, good-natured, healthy-looking, normal persons, they showed no signs of torture, or even discomfort, their first day of crowded functions in new and strange surroundings.

This reporter, besides witnessing their welcome from the Empress of Australia and at other events during the day, was in position to observe every move, gesture, expression and even every mouthful of food they ate at the luncheon nearly 300 Canadian notables attended.

At the risk of bad taste in talking about Royal manners at tables—the facts should be recorded that both the King and Queen had a good time. They are good talkers and good listeners, and they made a great assembly of dignitaries appear to feel at home in the august presence of the first British sovereign to visit this continent.

King George had a good appetite; the Queen watched her helpings carefully.

ATE HIS TOAST

So good was the King's appetite for his first meal ashore that, like a hungry schoolboy, he started eating his specially-prepared toast, with a bit of butter spread on it, almost the moment he hit his chair.

It wouldn't have been so noticeable, but there was delay in bringing the first course of melon, and there in the great gathering of the great men of Canada and their wives was the sovereign, the only person in the whole place with anything to eat. And he proceeded to eat. Oblivious to everything but his toast and butter, he crunched away while Prime Minister Mackenzie King, seated between him and the Queen, told him about Canada.

King George not only had special toast, but special specially-coated footmen all the way from Buckingham Palace to serve it. The ritual of the serving of the King and Queen was new to Canada. Each Buckingham Palace footman, a towering soldier-like figure, stood like a sentinel behind the chair occupied by the King and the Queen. Special waiters brought them food, wines, dishes, but only the footmen served the sovereigns.

The King's waiter served only the King and Prime Minister Mackenzie King, at his left. The Queen's footman served only her and the Hon. E. L. Patenaude, Lieutenant-Governor of Quebec. Of the menu: Cantaloupe, frappe, lobster tails, gribbled breast of chicken, glazed soufflé, assorted cakes, fruit and coffee. Queen Elizabeth stopped with the chicken. She declined sugar with her melon, took white wine and mineral water, but barely tasted either.

While King George delivered his address she sat with hands clasped watching his every movement intently.

King George remained seated during the toast "The King" and, according to the English tradition of smoking only after his host is drunk, pulled a cigarette from his own case, a match from another pocket, and was puffing away before the special footman who had come all the way from Buckingham Palace to serve him could reach his side.

QUEBEC (CP)—Police on duty about the Chateau Frontenac experienced difficulty with great crowds swarming Place d'Armes Square last night as Their Majesties dined in the hotel.

Awaiting the appearance of the King and Queen when they returned to the Citadel after the Provincial Government dinner, the pressing but good-natured through time after time broke through police lines before the Chateau's main entrance.

The harassed officers were able to keep the situation under control but it required their best efforts as the huge gathering swung forward again and again.

In reply to police orders to move back they called for "le roi et la reine."

Finally traffic police were summoned and with their motorcycles close together they formed a barrier about the hotel entrance.

QUEBEC (CP)—Three rousing cheers were given Their Majesties by hotel guests and newspapermen as the King and Queen left the Chateau Frontenac last night returning to the Citadel after the Provincial Government dinner. Time of Their Majesties' departure from the hotel was 10:16 p.m. E.D.T.

The King and Queen were spied by reporters here for the Royal Visit and the Chateau guests as they walked through the hotel lobby on their way from the ball room where the dinner had been held.

Someone called "three cheers for the King and Queen" and while all in the lobby responded heartily, Queen Elizabeth stopped, and turned to wave before passing out of the hotel.

Outside an excited throng took up the cheering and pressed hard against police lines as Their Majesties' automobile and its escort of motorcycle police swept off for the Citadel where the King and Queen spent the night.

QUEBEC (CP)—French Canada outdid itself yesterday in extending an epoch-making welcome to Their Majesties King George and Queen Elizabeth.

Never in its history had this 331-year-old city witnessed a demonstration like that given the King and Queen when they drove about the city.

Hours before the time set for the Sovereigns to make their appearance the procession route was thronged over its nine-mile length. Approximately 9,000 policemen, soldiers, scouts and cadets lined the streets and kept the crowds in check.

It was on wide Boulevard Charest in the lower town that the greatest crowd converged. They milled around for hours, fighting for places of vantage but when motorcycle police raced by heralding the proximity of the King and Queen there was immediate quiet and order.

Headed by more than 100 silver-hued motorcycles ridden by Provincial Police officers the procession started a few minutes after 3 p.m. E.D.T. from a point near Dufferin Terrace and led from the upper to the lower town.

All along the route the King and Queen were enthusiastically cheered, but it was in St. Sauveur and St. Malo, working-class districts, that Their Majesties were greeted with the greatest display of warmth.

Business was at a standstill and homes were emptied. Mothers brought infants into the streets, placing them in high chairs along the curbside.

At one point a crowd which had waited four hours for the coming of the King and Queen invaded a brick yard and carried out piles of bricks with which to make seats. Art craftsmen in the poorer section of the lower west end of the city built family stands in front of their humble homes.

To the cheering crowds stretched along the winding, narrow streets, the King and Queen kept nodding and smiling.

NEW-YORK (CP)—"King George's speech at Quebec yesterday in reply to the Premier's address of welcome was a little masterpiece in its kind," said the New York Times (Independent), today.

"In the language of the majority of the inhabitants of the province he did justice to their pride in their descent, their traditions and their tongue."

"Unless the King is unusually lucky he will have to sit patiently through a good deal of stodgy talk," the paper added. "He has set an example to orators deaf to the footfalls of time."

VANCOUVER (CP)—Vancouver will comb its adjoining farmlands and ocean depths for the civic luncheon to be given here in honor of the King and Queen May 29.

Sea foods, vegetables, spring lamb, fruits and all available ingredients will come from surrounding districts. The simple menu is: Crabmeat supreme; ravigote; essence of tomato madrilene; crown of spring lamb; bouquette Fraser Valley; bombe Victoria; frandises; fresh fruit; demi tasse.

CRANBROOK (CP)—More than 500 children at the Central School here yesterday took a long distance part in the welcome extended to the King and Queen at Quebec.

The youngsters heard by radio the King, Prime Minister Mackenzie King and Senator Macdougall speak at the Dominion Government luncheon in Chateau Frontenac. Later they shook the walls of the school music room with God Save the King when the national anthem was played as Their Majesties left the hotel dining room.

Previously each child was given a bronze medal by the Department of Education to commemorate the Royal Visit to Canada.

QUEBEC (CP)—"I love him—he is so nice." That's Marguerite Bedard's impression of King George. Daughter of Avila Bedard, Quebec Deputy Minister of Lands and Forests, she was a special attendant at the cloakroom used by Their Majesties in the Legislative Building yesterday.

With her were her sister,

Francoise, and Madeline Vallee, daughter of Ivan Vallee, Deputy Minister of Public Works.

The three young ladies were "thrilled" to be so close to Their Majesties.

"I do not think I will ever see enough of him," Marguerite complained.

Winnipeg (CP)—Mayor A. C. Ellison of Regina would not wear a top hat when the King and Queen visit the Saskatchewan capital May 25 even if Mayor Ralph Day of Toronto gave him one, he declared on his arrival here today.

Mayor Day yesterday sent a top hat to Mayor John Quinn of Winnipeg, but the chief magistrate here refused to say whether he would wear the gift when he welcomed the Royal couple to Winnipeg May 24.

Mayor Ellison said his costume would consist of grey fedora hat, a double-breasted grey lounge suit, grey gloves and black tie.

"I feel Their Majesties are not coming to meet me but to meet a representative of the people of Regina and therefore, that I should dress as nearly like the average citizen as possible," he said.

VANCOUVER (CP)—A feather quill from the King of birds is being used by Grace Melvin to draw the illuminated address the City will present King George and Queen Elizabeth May 29.

Miss Melvin, in her thirties, said she is using a pen made from a British Columbia eagle feather for the second address she had drawn for the present King. The Scottish artist, now a resident here, prepared the address conferring Freedom of the City of Glasgow on the King when he was Duke of York.

Text of the address, written by Dr. G. G. Sedgwick, head of the Department of English at the University of British Columbia, has not been released.

Photographs of the City and Vancouver's coat of arms will be included in the same leather-bound volume as the address, to be presented to Their Majesties by Mayor J. Lyle Telford in a ceremony at the City Hall.

A somewhat similar address is being prepared by Harry E. Kent, Vancouver engraver, for New Westminster. It will be handed to the King by Mayor Fred J. Hume May 31.

QUEBEC (CP)—Skeptical Jean Baptiste, who always wants to be shown, has taken the King and Queen to his heart.

Yesterday morning at Wolfe's Cove he applauded heartily because the King and Queen had come. By afternoon he was cheering lustily as acquaintance with Their Majesties deepened. At night he was fighting with police for a vantage point in the crowds to see them.

For Jean Baptiste, typical French-Canadian, is an independent, logical, freedom-loving individual.

Typical comment in French-Canadian crowds yesterday:

"The Queen is chic, isn't she? All the photos of her don't do her justice." This from a young man.

A French-Canadian priest: "It was more than a gesture his speaking to Senator Dandurand in French. And such a graceful speech!"

And the little French-Canadian girl who presented Her Majesty at the battlefield:

"I was frightened at first. But she was so nice. She asked me my name and if I was a little French girl."

TORONTO (CP)—A special mass for the King and Queen will be celebrated in every Catholic church and chapel in Ontario next Sunday. In a pastoral letter issued jointly by all Ontario archbishops and bishops Catholic people were asked to "welcome Their Majesties with all honor and reverence, befitting their high station and exalted rank."

TORONTO (CP)—Mrs. Francis MacAndrew French, once lieutenant of a Girl Guide troop formed by Queen Elizabeth at Glamis, Scotland, will be presented to Her Majesty here Monday, Mrs. French was born on the Glamis estate of the Queen's father, the Earl of Strathmore.

Eight grass courts and four hard-surfaced courts will be opened for play.

A gratifying increase in membership has been experienced this season, with some 80 new members already received.

Juniors will again receive special attention. The club will provide Terry Peers as coach for junior members each Saturday morning throughout June, July and August.

On Wednesday, May 24, a "get acquainted" progressive mixed doubles handicap tournament is being arranged specially to assist new members.

RAIN NEEDED IN U.S. WHEAT AREAS

Moisture Below Average in Dakotas, Montana and Other States

WASHINGTON (AP)—Federal farm officials predicted today the surplus wheat problem would virtually disappear for the United States this summer unless there is a sharp reversal in weather conditions in the grain belt.

They said dry weather was taking a heavy toll in such winter wheat states as Kansas,

Oklahoma, western Texas and Nebraska, and that moisture conditions in such spring wheat states as Minnesota, the Dakotas, Montana, Washington and Oregon were far below a year ago.

Weather bureau reports showed rainfall in the wheat belt was 30 to 40 per cent less than a year ago. Unless there is a marked increase in rainfall during the balance of this month—a critical one for winter wheat—the deficiency will be even greater.

The unfavorable weather conditions and 20 per cent reduction in the wheat acreage under the agriculture department's "crop control program may result in a crop hardly large enough, officials said, to supply normal domestic needs. Such needs average about 685,000,000 bushels a year.

Latest official estimates placed the crop at about 704,000,000 bushels. This estimate was based on the assumption, however, there would be no further crop deterioration.

UNITY OF CANADA

SASKATCHEWAN

Courage and Achievement!

Co-operation among Canada's nine Provinces means more than a strong Dominion. It is vital as well to the welfare of each individual Province. Each gives to the others; each receives from the others; all are bound together in ties of mutual interest.

IMMENSE — her 20,000,000 arable acres, larger than Ireland, her total area 5,000 square miles bigger than the British Isles and Sweden combined. Is just at the beginning of her greatness — just getting into her big stride, with her near million of people on the job, producing something like $300,000,000 worth of real wealth every year. The kind of people who suffer temporary reverses in years of bad luck, and yet who never falter in their belief that all will eventually come out right.

Saskatchewan: Set one of the world's records for rush to farm lands — increased her population ten times over from 1901 to 1931 — mighty producer of wheat and all other grains — enormous grower of live-stock (exported in 1937, 230,000 tons of them) — has 77,000 acres under irrigation, mostly in what was formerly known as "the dust bowl" of the West. She has mines of gold, copper, zinc — traps a million dollars worth of fur-bearing animals — has her share of that almost fabulous gift, the Pre-Cambrian Shield.

She is beginning to develop her own manufacturing activities, and Eastern industrialists are establishing within her borders their Western plants for making paints, motor cars; others are on the way.

She imports from and exports to all parts of Canada. Our own motor manufacturing people, numbering with their dependents over 132,000 people, are good customers of this great province. She has developed her broad miles of farm land by using mechanized farm implements, and has over a hundred thousand registrations for cars of all kinds, with trucks and motor buses.

One of the great provinces, no two of which are alike, but all contributing the things that make Canada one of the great nations of the world.

Ask for Facts and Figures on the Automotive Industries and the work they are doing in Canada. We will send them.

BUILDING CANADIAN MOTOR CARS is a National Enterprise

The automotive industry means more to Canada and to her individual Provinces than the mere fact that it employs 18,000 workers. These men are but the start of an impressive employment chain reaching into and benefiting every part of Canada. There are some 300 Parts Industries giving pay envelopes to 15,000 more people, a total of 33,000 directly dependent on automotive manufacture. Add six families and a percentage for the shops that feed and clothe them and the professions and trades that minister to them and you have a unit of amazing purchasing power. The money it spends goes to every Province. The Automotive Industry is National in purpose and National in scope. When you buy a Canadian-built car, you help your own Province.

Premier Inspects Police On Mounts

Guard of Honor for King and Queen in Full Dress Rehearsal Today

The mounted guard of the provincial police, which will be on duty at the Parliament Buildings when the King and Queen visit there, May 30, was inspected this morning by Premier Pattullo and Attorney-General Gordon S. Wismer.

The guard presented a trim appearance, the horses being sleek and well groomed and the men smartly uniformed. They were under command of Sgt. E. C. Williamson.

The Premier congratulated the guard on its appearance and said he felt satisfied its members would do a good job on May 30. Later the Premier announced he would hold an informal reception the evening of May 30 for 100 newspaper correspondents from Great Britain, the United States and all parts of Canada, who will accompany the Royal Party to Victoria.

All seats in the two grandstands from which Oak Bay residents will see the King and Queen have been sold, a special meeting of the municipality's Royal Visit committee was told last night. The stands will be outside the Municipal Hall on Oak Bay Avenue and on the High School grounds on Cranmore Road.

The Saanich School Board last night completed final arrangements for the welcome of Saanich-school children to the King and Queen which will be staged at the corner of the Gorge Road and Tillamook Road as the Royal party crosses the Gorge Bridge.

The trustees met with P. C. Routley and R. Huddleston, principals representing the teachers' committee, which worked with the board in arranging the reception. There will be 1,100 Saanich children and 180 from North Saanich massed at the intersection. All will be issued with flags and they will assemble between 10 and 10:30. Special accommodation will be made for primary pupils.

With decoration of city streets scheduled to start today, Alderman T. W. Hawkins, chairman of the city decorations committee, issued an appeal to drivers of large vans to avoid pumping into pennants and hanging baskets set up on lamp standards. In former years baskets have been destroyed by the large trucks striking them as the vehicles were backed into sidewalks for loading and unloading purposes.

The alderman also suggested city merchants and building proprietors have their decorations in place for May 24.

Special arrangements being made by military, militia, naval and ex-servicemen's organizations to line the route of the Royal procession May 30 were discussed.

at a meeting of representatives under Alderman B. J. Gadsden last night. The meeting considered arrangements for flood-lighting certain streets upon the arrival of the Royal party on the night of May 29, voicing the hope suitable arrangements would be made along those lines at the C.P.R. dock. Sea Cadets from the United States would assist in lining the route, Alderman Gadsden stated.

Saanich Finds Water Supply

Underground Source in Cordova Bay Area Appears Satisfactory

There is every indication the quest of Saanich Municipality for its own water supply is over, it is reported by municipal authorities as tests are being conducted on a supply located in the Cordova Bay area.

The supply was located several weeks ago and the council decided to have tests made throughout the summer months to determine whether there would be any lowering of the level of the supply when the peak load was required.

Within the last two days a four-inch pump has been installed and yesterday a continuous supply of 400 gallons a minute was pumped. Authorities said it was excellent water.

"I am satisfied we will get the water Saanich requires," Reeve A. G. Lambick commented this morning. "There is every indication of a vast underground supply at this location." Tests will be continued during the summer and if everything is satisfactory it is possible plans for installing a municipal water system may go ahead.

B.C. Coal Output Records Gains

British Columbia coal mines increased their output during April with 112,475 tons produced against 102,006 tons in the same month last year, according to the monthly report of the Chief Inspector of Mines issued here today.

Vancouver Island district showed a slight drop, with production of 55,985 tons compared to 55,998 tons in April 1934. Canadian Collieries Ltd. turned out 40,811 tons; Western Fuel Corporation 13,538 tons and the other seven collieries in the district 1,636 tons.

Overtime Pay During Visit

Employees of hotels and restaurants who are forced to work overtime during the Royal Visit must be paid time and a half, the Board of Industrial Relations ruled in a special order today.

It covers only Victoria and Vancouver for the period May 27 to 31, inclusive.

Owing to the unusual amount of work that is in prospect, it says that employees may be worked the extra hours that may be necessary but must get the time and one-half rate for everything over eight hours in one day.

Special Holidays Within Fortnight

Three special holidays will be enjoyed by City Hall staffs and certain offices within the two weeks from May 20.

Starting Saturday the hall will close for the observance of the King's Birthday. On May 24 Empire Day will call for another holiday. On May 30 the hall will be closed for general business all day.

Compensating city store employees for the fact they will be given only the morning, up to noon, off on May 30, will be the usual Wednesday afternoon half holiday the following day.

A total of $69 and $3 costs was collected in fines for various offences in the City Police Court this morning. Several penalties were collected as the result of the city's drive to collect road and poll taxes and dog licenses which are overdue.

Four motorists were fined $10 each for exceeding 30 miles an hour and four more were each fined $2.50 for parking violations.

Log of the Pilot Train

Special to The Times

Chateau Frontenac, Quebec City.—When I completed the first part of the log this afternoon I felt that our labors for the day were ended and that we could go off and see some more sights or get some sleep but there in my key box at the hotel were many envelopes from train headquarters. One said that a meeting for final instructions would be held in the Jacques Cartier Room at 6:30 and to be sure to be there.

We gathered on time and found food in large quantities spread before us on a central table. One might say the table was laden with food but it was at Government House in Victoria when the Legislature is in session. It was all very nice and refreshing, particularly the huge table centre of an ice basket, with flowers spreading out from the top.

The great administrator, Frontenac, looked down on us from his oil painting and Cartier was over in the other corner. Hundreds of years ago these great Frenchmen were factors in this part of the continent. Under Frontenac's watchful eye we sat down. There was Stephens of the Sifton papers, Allan of the Southern Press, Adams of the Minneapolis Star, Briggs of the English weeklies, Lester of Central Press, Washington and myself. Lester, who is not long out of Harvard, was feeling particularly flush as he had just sold a story to the Saturday Evening Post and a serial to Liberty, which is pretty fair going even for a veteran.

We ate and talked and Lester who is small and not impressive in looks, asked if we had ever heard of the G-men in this country. Stephens and I exchanged winks and Lester proceeded to pull out his ample credentials in the centre of which was a large brass deputy marshal's badge of the United States. No he was not actually a G-man but the next best thing to it. I could not then brag about being a police commissioner in Victoria.

Suddenly people in other parts of the room began standing up, and on inquiring we found that Rt. Hon. Mackenzie King, the Prime Minister, had arrived on the parliamentary special and had come to meet the boys and girls on the Pilot Train. We all shook hands.

"Say, did you hear something?" asked Stephens.

"Sure, it sounded like a slap," said Briggs.

Right behind us a very animated conversation was going on between two French-Canadians. Hands were being waved, noses were being puffed together. One man was short, tubby and dark—the other thin, short and fair. The talk got louder, the men got paler. None of us knew what they were saying but their actions conveyed plenty. The fair fellow apparently wanted the dark one to come on outside and "let's settle things like French-Canadians." I don't know whether or not that included kicking in the shins. And all this while the Prime Minister was only a few feet away.

Curiosity got the best of me and I beckoned one of the other Frenchies to the side and asked him what it was all about. Well, would you believe it, they were the city editors of the two French-speaking daily newspapers. The dark one worked on a Conservative paper and the fair one on the Liberal paper. The dark one had turned his back on Mackenzie King and refused to shake hands with him. The fair one thought this an affront to him and he assailed the dark one, who promptly smashed the fair one across the face.

"They always do that," said my informer. "Every time they meet they want to fight; always over politics."

The two city editors continued to harangue each other as we speculated on the possibility of a couple of city editors in any other part of the country who could be so thoroughly aroused, particularly over a political subject, even if it took in all the premiers in Canada, to want to bluff one another on the nose. I can recall in early days on the Times when reporters liked to fight and one of them took a revolver to the City Council chamber because he had been threatened by an alderman. But times in Victoria's City Council have changed too.

Last instructions were given the pilot train's party and we left Frontenac and Cartier to exchange their silent glances and we went back to the lobby, which now was filled with Privy Counsellors and lesser politicians and their wives. Sir Edward Beatty, president of the C.P.R., and J. S. Hungford, president of the C.N.R., were also there.

But a great change was coming over the chateau. You could sense the presence of more police. Everywhere you went in the hotel there were plainclothes men. You can't mistake them. People were refused admission to the hotel unless they had special passes, issued by the management. I'll need a secretary soon to look after all the passes a man needs for this train party.

Newspapermen are getting warmed up. The cameramen have disappeared. It is reported boats have been chartered and will try to get alongside the Empress of Australia, which now is at her anchorage below Quebec City. Yet definite instructions have been issued that this will not be tolerated. Airplanes will not be allowed to fly within three miles of any spot where their Majesties are and not under 8,000 feet. But some of these fellows will try anything just for the sake of doing it, praying that they will get the break they are attempting to force.

At midnight the lobby cools off a bit. Some of the English writers, who so far have filled nothing, think they will get something off their morning editions.

So up to bed for the last night's sleep in the chateau. Tomorrow night we must retire aboard the pilot train so as to be away first thing the next morning.

I looked out my window across the St. Lawrence to where the Empress of Australia rests, and off to the left at my own height is the clock on top of the post-office which says it is 12:45 a.m.

But apparently no one can rest. The clock has struck one.

I wonder if the King is able to sleep in view of the pending morning fraught with history.

The clock strikes two. My watch story I could write to-night if only the King was coming tonight. Ideas dance before my mind. It's strange what fanciful ideas we have in bed but can't recall them in the morning.

The clock strikes three. It must be that I'm excited. I finally realize that the same excitement and keen anticipation which I had years ago on Christmas Eve and believed in Santa Claus.

Thank goodness I didn't hear four o'clock, but at six o'clock the phone rang and a soothing voice said:

"Good Morning sir. It's six o'clock."

It's good those girls have soothing voices at that hour.

But despite the hour the click of a typewriter came to me from across the hall. That fellow Bruce Hutchison was at it again, battling off his specials to the Vancouver Sun and Victoria Times. He never seems to stop.

Doors are banging, bath water is running, the Pilot Train party is on the move. A great day is in prospect. We're going to meet the King and Queen.

Those details will have been conveyed to you by now by that very efficient service, the Canadian Press.

Tells Rotarians Of Peace River

A recent study of the Peace River district made during a visit there to organize a health service from the Provincial Health Department, formed the subject of an interesting address by Dr. J. S. Cull to members of the Rotary Club at luncheon in the Empress Hotel today.

The name, Peace River, resulted from the ending of hostilities of three tribes of Indians at a point on Lake Athabasca where the river emptied, Dr. Cull said.

Buildings still stood in the district which were constructed at the time of the first settlers as far back as 1798. Little was heard of the district but for its trapping and fur-trading activities up to 1919 when a group of returned soldiers settled there. Since that time the improvements in the area have been outstanding.

In 1930 the railroad first reached the district. At the present time there were over 30 post offices and 70 stores in the four main centres of the Peace River district.

The district in general was a vast plateau averaging 25,000 feet above sea level. A striking feature of the land was deep ravines cut by the five main rivers which flowed throughout the district. The rivers averaged 600 feet below the surface of the land, with vertical banks in many parts.

The climate in the district was fairly dry throughout the winter and summer. In winter the average temperature was 10 degrees below zero and in the summer 54 degrees above. A moderate snowfall was experienced during the winter months.

Dr. Cull reviewed the health standpoint of the district as being exceptionally good following the formation of a health service.

G. Hamilton Harman, president, was in the chair. He announced that the members had endorsed the proposed good fellowship campaign by Rotary International, which bring prominent speakers to the city next fall.

Special Traffic Regulations Set

Bus and Street Car Services Suspended For Part of May 30

Traffic and parking regulations for the Royal Visit were set yesterday afternoon by a special citizens committee, sitting under Alderman Ed Williams at the City Hall.

On the morning of May 30, bus and street car services will be suspended from 8 in the morning to 1 in the afternoon.

Incoming buses from up-island centres will be permitted to proceed to their terminus by regular routes up to 8, and may go, via Quadra Street, up to 9.

Informing the public generally that its members would have to be in position early if they wished to secure transportation to the city for the main procession, the committee suggested that citizens make arrangements to see the parade as it passes through outlying districts, in order to avoid undue congestion downtown.

No automobiles will be permitted to cross the Royal procession route, through Greater Victoria, May 30, for a period two hours before it commences until it has ended. No cars may be parked along the route.

On May 29, prior to the arrival of Their Majesties at the C.P.R. dock at 9 in the evening, Menzies Street will be blocked off from Quebec Street to Belleville Street. Oswego will be barricaded from Quebec to Belleville and Belleville will be kept clear from Oswego to Menzies.

To provide adequate room for the assembly of the guard-of-honor for the Royal party, automobiles and pedestrians will be kept off the barricaded streets.

Cars may not be parked there after 5.

The committee also decided to keep the west side of Douglas Street, between Niagara and Simcoe Streets, clear of spectators during the naval color presentation ceremony at Beacon Hill Park on May 30. Cars and spectators will be kept off Dallas Avenue, Olympia Avenue and Battery Street, after 8 in the morning, for the purpose of assembling naval units. No pedestrians or cars will be allowed on Niagara Street and Simcoe Street between Government and Douglas Streets.

Other incidental details were discussed by the committee yesterday, including the move to require milk deliveries on May 29, 30 and 31 to be completed by 7:45 in the morning.

JOHN R. BUNN IS CALLED TO REST

John Robertson Bunn, well-known resident of Victoria since 1919, died last night at his home, 130 Moss Street, after a long illness, aged 79 years.

A native of Quebec, Mr. Bunn homesteaded in Saskatchewan in 1885, and subsequently conducted lumber and grain businesses in that province. He was first councillor and reeve of Qu'Appelle at a time when there was only four municipalities in the Northwest Territories, and after autonomy was granted in 1905 was made chairman of the Saskatchewan provincial board of license commissioners.

After his retirement, Mr. Bunn came to Victoria to live and quickly found scope for his executive ability as a member of the board of managers of the First United Church, and as the executive of the Canadian Club. He was also a member of the Canadian Bible Society and a staunch prohibitionist.

He is survived by his widow and four daughters, Mrs. T. C. Judeich, Pleasant Valley, Sask.; Mrs. E. L. Stipe and Mrs. Lillian M. Smallwood, Victoria; and Miss Jessie L. Bunn, Vancouver; two sons, John R. Bunn Jr., Regina, and Charles H. Bunn, Victoria; also twelve grandchildren and one great-grandchild.

The funeral services will be conducted by Rev. John E. Bell on Monday afternoon at 2:30, at McCall Bros' Funeral Home, followed by interment in the family plot in Ross Bay Cemetery. No flowers, by request.

JOHN L. WHITE DIES ON BOWLING GREEN

Collapsing in the middle of a game, John Lillie White, well-known druggist of this city and former deputy provincial secretary, died suddenly last night on the Victoria lawn bowling green at 6:30 of a cerebral hemorrhage.

Born in Wakefield, P.Q., Mr. White was the son of the late Rev. Joseph White and Elizabeth Chalmers White. He received his early education in Ottawa, later entering Toronto University, from which he subsequently graduated in pharmacy. He came to British Columbia in 1894, and was in the drug business in Victoria and Greenwood before he became deputy provincial secretary while John Oliver was Premier of British Columbia, retaining this position under Dr. Maclean.

About nine years ago he retired from government service and returned to his old business as druggist, being proprietor of Shotbolt's drugstore, 589 Johnson Street, from then until the present time.

He was an active and useful member of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, having been on the board of managers for some years.

Besides his wife at the family home, 250 Government Street, there survive three brothers, W. J. White, Ladner, whom he visited three weeks ago on the occasion of his brother's golden wedding anniversary; T. P. White, Winnipeg, and Currie G. White, La Jolla, California.

The funeral will be held tomorrow afternoon at 2 from St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Rev. J. L. W. McLean officiating; cremation at Royal Oak Crematorium. McCall Bros. have charge of the funeral.

JONES — Mrs. Mary Jones, wife of Harry Jones, Port Renfrew, died yesterday in St. Joseph's Hospital. Mrs. Jones, who was born in Victoria 23 years ago, leaves her husband and one son, Ronald, at home; her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. James; two sisters, Misses Martha and Teresa James, and one brother, Herman James, Victoria. The funeral cortege will leave Sands Mortuary at 8:30 tomorrow morning and proceed to Admirals Road Catholic Church, where Rev. Father A. B. Wood will celebrate mass at 9. Interment will take place in the family's private cemetery.

'Law of Texan' Columbia Show

Buck Jones Risks His Neck Riding in Western Border Scrap

Six guns bark terror as Buck Jones risks his neck in the saddle and his life behind a gun to smash the most desperate band of silver thieves that ever terrified the border! The border blazes with flaming fury as Buck brings you the tops in chain-lightning action!

In an entirely new characterization, the hard-riding star of many a thrill-packed western, exceeds even his own past efforts in Columbia's "Law of the Texan," which opens today at the Columbia Theatre. Buck is seen as a lovable, easy-going Texas Ranger, who after being misunderstood by his friends, joins a gang of outlaws, only to bring them to justice and to bring peace and happiness again to a harassed country-side.

Selma Reyes Is Given Acclaim

Talented Young Violinist Praised in Splendid Recital at Empress

By G.J.D.

Violin-playing of genuine achievement was that of last night, when Selma Reyes gave a recital at the Empress Hotel, before a fairly large and evidently well-pleased gathering of musical people.

Her well-chosen program, of exceptional interest to string players, comprised good, sound violinistic material that seemed particularly suitable to the occasion, and sharply contrasting. Among these were the famous "Devil's Trill" (cadenza by Kreisler); Sarasate's "Zigeunerweisen"; the familiar "Perpetuum Mobile," by Novacek; two modernistic pieces by Nin, the Cuban pianist-composer; Elgar's "La Capricieuse"; a Norwegian dance, by Grieg, and two pieces that called for a singing cantilena and sensuous playing "The Poem, Chavsson, and Reger's Largo.

Was not the opening number, Prelude, by Bach, taken at too great a speed to the sacrifice of breadth and dignity?

IMPROVEMENT NOTED

But summing up the violinist's performance throughout, there was a greater command of the resources of the instrument and a greater charm in the finer points of violin playing than were left in the minds of those who heard her earlier in the season. It is believed Miss Reyes can still give more romance, more poetry in all she attacks, that "afflatus," that indefinable, individual something so desired and expected from those who enter the field of greatness.

Technically, she is splendidly equipped and equal to any passage emergency, as was seen in the "Devil's Trill," the Sarasate number and in the "Perpetuum." Style there was in Elgar's delightful "La Capricieuse," not so apparent, however, in the Grieg dance. But remembering that the artist, even in smaller works, is he who feels for those kaleidoscopic tints and charming lyrical moments that discriminate from the mediocre, and the recitalist must feel proud of the clamorous applause on those occasions that followed these gifts.

There was refreshing vigor in the two final modern numbers, in the harmonics, pizzicatos, fourths and fifths brimming throughout. The more preferred was the first, "En el Jardin de Lindaraja." Many recalls to the platform and two augmented solos concluded a delightful evening with violin music.

Maquinn Daniels was, as usual, an efficient accompanist, and collaborated splendidly with the soloist.

Charles Laughton Gives Fine Characterization in Role of 'Ginger Ted'

"The Beachcomber," which opened today at the Oak Bay Theatre, marks the highest point in the distinguished career of the great screen actor, Charles Laughton.

Based on a W. Somerset Maugham story, the picture casts Laughton in the role of "Ginger Ted," a unique and interesting characterization which he handles with all the adroitness and finish which he lent to the parts of Captain Bligh in "Mutiny on the Bounty," and the title role of "Rembrandt."

At the inception of the action, "Ginger Ted" is disrupting the peace of a tropical Dutch Indies island. Charles Laughton's wife, Elsa Lanchester, delivers a fine performance as Miss Jones. Tyrone Guthrie, in the role of Dr. Jones, and Robert Newton as the Controller, are outstanding members of the supporting cast. Erich Pommer produced and directed the picture for Mayflower.

He's back—the gayest, most gallant gun-fighter of them all! It's the Cisco Kid, O. In "The Return of the Cisco Kid," Back into old Arizona rides that gallant caballero and bullets can't touch him, jails can't hold him and posess can't get him. A thousand senoritas sigh for him, but the one girl he really wants, he can't have!

It's an entertaining piece of screen refreshment that 20th Century-Fox has given in "The Return of the Cisco Kid."

Italian troops massed outside the Basilica exchanged military honors with the Pope's Palatine Guardsmen and military bands played a hymn, the royal march and Giovezza, the Fascist air.

Railway Debate In Vancouver

R. H. Tupper and Colin Cameron Take Opposite Sides On Question

VANCOUVER — A descendant of one of Canada's Fathers of Confederation last night asked a Vancouver audience if Canadians have so far forgotten the example of their ancestors that they cannot settle one of the nation's most pressing economic questions—the railway problem—by adopting the unification proposals advanced by Sir Edward Beatty to save the country $50,000,000 a year and ameliorate Canadian National debts already totalling $3,300,000,000.

R. H. Tupper, Vancouver barrister, in debate before the Canadian Commonwealth Federation's Open Forum, answered his opponent, Colin Cameron, M.L.A. for Alberni, Vancouver Island, on the bugaboo of "monopoly" which the C.C.F. member raised against unification, by saying that under the scheme repeatedly expounded by the Canadian Pacific president interests of Canadian railway users would be safeguarded fully, as they have been since 1903 by the Board of Railway Commissioners set up to adjudicate differences between the railways and shippers.

To the Vancouver Island member's charge that all of the savings of unification—variously estimated as between $75,000,000 and $55,000,000 per year—would be at the expense of labor, Mr. Tupper explained that under the unification plan of Sir Edward Beatty labor was amply safeguarded.

"I have more faith in my fellow Canadians than to assume that we are to leave this railway problem unsolved," said the Vancouver lawyer, "simply because we are willing, or lethargic enough, to maintain 40,000 miles of competitive railway lines in a country of 11,000,000 people, without at least giving a fair trial to the only logical plan so far advanced for a solution of the vital economic problem surrounding the railways. To my mind, too much attention has been paid to the Canadian Pacific's part in the bargain. As Canadians and real owners of the Canadian National Railways we should look to a bargain. As Canadians and real owners of the Canadian National Railways we should look at it this way, that if unification would be a good bargain for the Canadian Pacific, as Sir Edward seems to think it would be, it would be just as good a bargain for the Canadian National and the taxpayers of Canada."

Wheat

WINNIPEG (CP)—Firmness at Chicago, due to further unfavorable crop and weather reports from United States winter wheat fields and the western Canada grain belt carried Winnipeg wheat futures price higher today. Final quotations were 1/2 to 1/4 cent higher, May at 64 1/2, July 65 1/2 to 65 3/4 and October 66 1/2.

The support came after advices from the United States southwest predicted fair and warm weather. Large areas of western Canada's spring grain fields continued to suffer from lack of moisture.

Liverpool finished 1/4d ahead to unchanged. Chicago climbed about a cent while Buenos Aires was on holiday.

Good demand for port northern grades came out in cash wheat. Pit trading in coarse grains uncovered some speculative demand.

Story of the Battle-ship

—DREADNOUGHTS AND THE WORLD-WAR

Thirty-four years ago, a big new battleship was built by Great Britain. The facts about it were kept secret during the building; at least, the general public was told almost nothing about it in the newspapers. Foreign spies probably learned a great deal and told their governments everything they found out.

British dreadnoughts firing in Battle of Jutland.

When the new vessel was launched, the secrets were made open to the public. It was called the Dreadnought, a name meaning "fear nothing."

The dreadnought had 10 big guns, each of 12-inch calibre. It was 490 feet long and had a speed of 21 knots. At the waterline the belt of armor was 11 inches thick.

That was perhaps the most powerful ship of the year 1905. Partly because of the special effort to keep facts about it secret, it became famous. When other ships of the same type were built, people called them dreadnoughts.

In 1909 and 1910, Great Britain launched other and even more powerful vessels. Among them was the Orion, with 10 guns of 13½-inch calibre.

In 1912, two years before the World War, the Queen Elizabeth took to the water. It had a length of 600 feet and carried eight 15-inch guns, as well as a number of six-inch guns.

In the period before the World War, Great Britain was having a race with Germany to build the most powerful navy. Germany had entered the field rather late and did not catch up.

During the World War the Germans kept their main fleet in safe harbors most of the time. They feared to fight the British warships.

In 1916, however, near the end of May, the German high seas fleet dared to go out on the North Sea, and there they fought a battle with the British grand fleet.

It was a fast and furious fight, and took place about 90 miles west of the coast of Denmark. It is known as the Battle of Jutland. The British had 28 battleships, the Germans 22. In addition, there were cruisers, destroyers and other vessels on both sides.

Although the German vessels tried to find cover, and did at last escape, they lost fewer men than the British. The Germans lost one battleship and five cruisers, and the British lost six cruisers. Both sides lost torpedo craft.

Near the end of the war the German fleet was ordered to go out on the North Sea to break the blockade. The sailors would not go.

Dorothy Dix's Letter Box

DEAR MISS DIX—I am 20 and have been married two and a half months. Two weeks after I was married my husband had one of his grouchy spells which lasted for 10 days. During this time he completely ignored me and only spoke when it was necessary. He has had three spells since, all lasting about a week. His mother tells me he has always had them and not to pay any attention to him, but I can't go on living with a man who three-fourths of the time doesn't speak to me and doesn't answer when I speak to him. What am I supposed to do while he is in these moods? Just go on cooking for him, cleaning house and working for him until he suddenly comes out of his daze? When he feels good and is himself we have a good time, but he never apologizes for the way he has acted. He says I am a splendid wife and he loves me, but could he and treat me this way?

Answer: He probably loves you as much as he can any one but himself, but he is so selfish and self-centred that there is mighty little percentage left of affection to bestow upon a mere wife. No man can have a meager disposition than the grouchy, or be harder to live with yet there are plenty of them.

Men who just pass into the silence whenever they get peeved and who keep their poor unfortunate families wondering what on earth they have done, or what has happened to bring on a "spell" that they are powerless to cure because the offended one won't discuss it.

I think any woman is very foolish who lets herself in for a lifetime of misery by living with a grouchy, walking on tiptoes for fear of treading on some unknown prejudice of his that will make him shut up like a clam, and wearing herself out trying to be bright and cheery and loving to wheedle him out of his glooms.

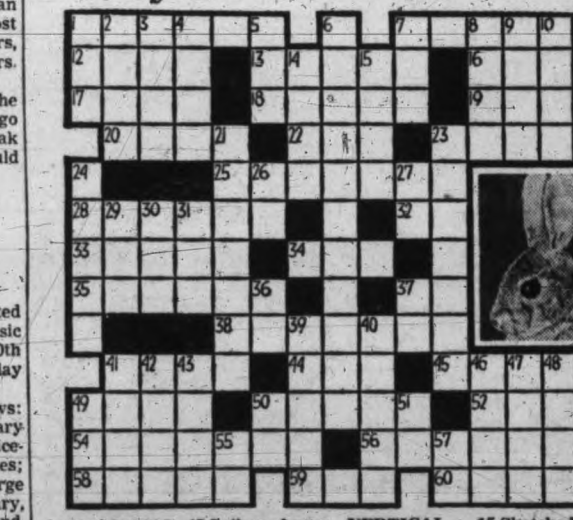

My advice to you is to put on your hat and leave the very next time His Sulkiness begins to pout. Put a note on his dresser saying that you don't enjoy living with a dummy, and when he is ready to come out of the sulks and act like a rational man instead of a spoiled baby that you will come back.

When he finds out there is no food to eat at home, no beds made, no laundry sent out and nobody to talk to him or care whether he is silent or chatty, he will have no more "spells."

DEAR DOROTHY DIX—One of the greatest causes of domestic unhappiness is the interference of their families in young people's affairs. Most young married couples would get along all right if their in-laws would just let them fight it out by themselves. I think our daily prayer should be: "Lord, help me to keep my darn nose out of other people's business, in-laws or otherwise."

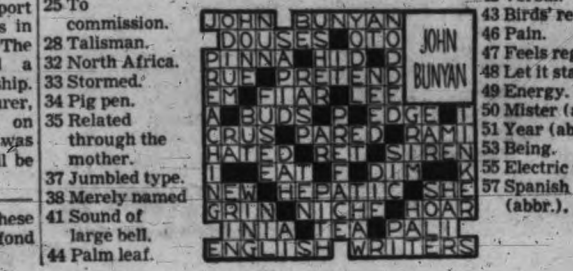

Answer: Amen. DOROTHY DIX.

Princesses Busy While Royal Parents Travel

By MILTON BRONNER

LONDON—While King George and Queen Elizabeth are touring Canada, their two little girls are well and busy as bees, and everybody is trying to keep them from being too lonesome.

Princess Elizabeth and her sister, Margaret Rose, have just been to the zoo, fed the elephants, watched the baby panda and ridden in a cart behind a llama. All in all, their days are pretty full. Just like any other dutiful little daughters, they are remembering the final admonitions of their mother:

"They must be good little girls (They promised.)"

Elizabeth must look after little sister. (She will.)

Studies as usual. (Yes, mother.) You can entertain your little friends. (Oh, fine!)

FOLLOW THEIR USUAL PROGRAM

As much as possible, the Queen arranged the routine for the children so that it would be very much as it was when she is in England.

Each Friday afternoon one of the palace cars takes them down to the Royal Lodge, Windsor, for the week-end. Here they swim in their pool, go riding in the park, and drilling with the Girl Guide company to which they belong.

On Monday morning, just like any other little girls, they return to their home, which happens to be Buckingham Palace and, like other little girls, for five days they resume their lessons. Princess Elizabeth has displayed a special enthusiasm for French ever since she tried it on President and Madame Lebrun of France during their recent visit to London.

The meals of the children are served as usual. When Mrs. Knight, their monitor, gives the O.K., they will entertain some of their friends at luncheon or tea. They will also go on visits with Queen Mary, who will be in residence in Marlborough House not far from Buckingham Palace.

THEY'RE GOOD CORRESPONDENTS

Once a week from the palace and once a week from Royal Lodge, Windsor, they will each write letters to their parents, telling them everything they have done and how they are. On the other hand, the Queen will talk to the children daily from Canada and the United States. She will give them full details of all the wonderful things the King and Queen are seeing.

But one thing she will not tell them—the presents and souvenirs she is bringing back to them from United States and Canada. Those will be their big surprise.

Y. P. COUNCIL PICNIC

Envoy Says Russian People Want Peace

NEW YORK (AP)—Ambassador Constantine Oumansky, newly-appointed Russian envoy to the United States, said yesterday the Soviet Union's foreign policy expressed "the will of our people for international peace and security."

Asserting "a new war has virtually already started on at least three continents," Oumansky declared in a speech dedicating the Soviet pavilion at the New York World's Fair:

"The Soviet people are not impressed by threats. Neither do they beg for alliances. They are prepared to co-operate on a basis of complete reciprocity and equal obligations with powers which are interested in the maintenance of peace and who feel themselves threatened by aggression."

WINNIPEG (CP)—Proposal of the Canada and Dominion Sugar Company to build a $2,000,000 sugar beet refinery in Manitoba was outlined in a memorandum submitted today to Hon. J. S. McDiarmid, provincial Minister of Mines and Resources. The proposal, rendered by Isaac Pitblado, K.C., company counsel, said the plant would use about 200,000 tons of sugar beets a year.

this great new Goodyear tire costs no more than a standard tire. Why be satisfied with less than a Goodyear G-100.

• Here's the G-100 story in a nutshell. Goodyear engineers developed this tire on an entirely new principle ... they designed it so that the tread would actually compress under air pressure ... pull tight ... not spread. This compressed tread resists cutting, has a much slower rate of wear, provides longer, non-skid mileage than any other tires. See the G-100 at your Goodyear dealer's today!

MORE PEOPLE RIDE ON GOODYEAR TIRES THAN ON ANY OTHER KIND

When the King and Queen departed for Canada they left behind two sad little princesses, who are seen above. Margaret Rose wiped away tears, while Princess Elizabeth held a handkerchief—just in case. But the tears turned to smiles and whoops of glee when they were taken to the London Zoo and, as shown above, watched the clownish antics of the giant panda.
